READY TO TURN MINES BACK TO THEIR OWNERS

Ickes Reveals Plans, Outlines Program For Closer U. S. Supervision.

AWAITS CONTRACT OK

Fuels Co-ordinator Warns of Danger of Shortage of Coal Supplies.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Interior Ickes informed the house ways and means committee today he plans to return the bituminous coal mines to private operators as soon as possible, but even now is discussing with the owners a program for "closer supervision" of the mines by the government.

Ickes made his statement as thousands of miners returned to the coal pits and full scale production neared.

Ickes told the committee, now considering extension of the Guffey bituminous coal act, that the new program, when worked out, will be "sensible and conservative" to assure the maximum production of coal.

"I hope its period will be exceedingly brief—but I must say there is nothing in the situation at the moment which leads me to believe this will be so," Ickes frankly warned congress.

He assured the committee that his position on government operation of the soft coal mines has not changed, that the mines will be returned to operator control "just as soon as there is reasonable assurance that the miners will work for the operators."

"This will be just as soon as they agree on a contract," the solid fuels co-ordinator declared.

And he added this warning as to production:

"It is now touch and go whether we can produce enough coal to meet the nation's requirements."

The secretary declared that since April soft coal production has been 23,000,000 tons less than production schedules called for and that since January, 1942, the industry has suffered a manpower loss of 50,000 workers.

He urged extension of the Guffey act for the two year period beyond its present expiration date of Aug. 23, predicting that, if this is not done, "liquidation of coal companies and the closing of mines will be greatly accelerated."

Sometime this week, contingent upon the return to work of all the 540,000 soft coal miners, President Roosevelt may act to enforce the war labor board order in the prolonged coal wage dispute and direct the UMW to sign a contract with the mine owners.

SECOND PERIOD

Fisher Pleased With Liquor Plan's Operation.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The second buying period of rationed liquor began today as State Director Don A. Fisher expressed satisfaction at the way the plan operated during the first four-week period.

He reported there was general heavy buying on Saturday, final day of the first period, but no "panic buying."

"There were line-ups at many stores Saturday, but none exhausted their stocks and all of them finished with good supplies and varieties of brands on hand," he said.

From now on it is not necessary to purchase liquor in a zoned store. Liquor may be purchased by registrants at any of the stores.

Quirk Saves Town from 'Barrage'

Ammunition Car Burns, But Shells Fire Away From City.

(By United Press)

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo.—The city of Grand Junction was saved from deadly bombardment because a steel freight car loaded with ammunition overturned and discharged its perilous cargo in the opposite direction from the town's residential district, an inspection disclosed today.

The car, rocked by explosions fell on its side and the roof was torn off by shells screaming into virtually open territory, officials of the Rio Grande railroad said. Eight persons were injured by sharpnel, however, three seriously.

The barrage was set off by fire early Sunday, and for three hours shells from two freight cars whined over the town at intervals of about one second. Many residents awakened from their sleep thought the town was under enemy attack.

The Rio Grande railroad yards where the explosions occurred was a veritable no-man's land today. The steel freight car was a twisted, perforated hulk. The other car, a wooden one, was a mound of ashes. Railroad officials believed a hot box on the wooden car, acquired during the fast mountain run into Grand Junction, may have started the blaze.

The freight train carrying the ammunition pulled into the Rio Grande freight yards shortly before 2 a. m., Sunday. V. I. Griffith, a switchman, noticed flames leaping at a freight car marked "explosives." He saw smoke pouring from another, ran in and uncoupled the two cars from the rest of the train. Shrapnel began falling around him as he raced away.

GIVES NEW 'A' BOOK WARNING

Beelman Says 10 Per Cent of Mail Applications Being Incorrectly Filled Out.

As incorrectly made out applications for renewal of A gas ration books continued to pour in to the ration board today, Charles C. Beelman, ration board chairman, again warned motorists to follow instructions in making out applications.

Nearly 10 per cent of the applications received last week were incomplete, Beelman said. This means just that much extra work for the already busy ration board clerks, he said, and may possibly cause a delay in mailing of books to these motorists.

Youngsters Taken Ill At Camp Eager To Resume Play

Friendly House Hidden Hollow camp today settled back to normal after what looked at first to be a bad situation when nearly half of the 40 youngsters who arrived there yesterday became sick after supper.

When five of the group became ill and 16 others showed first symptoms of food poisoning, Russell Gimbel, camp director, took all necessary precautions summoning a doctor, trained nurse and two nurse's aides.

By 11 p. m. the sick youngsters were all feeling better and in bed. This morning, Gimbel reported, the group was up early today anx-

RELATIVES ON PORCH AS SHIP MAKES PLUNGE

Roy Smith, 34, Henry Volz, 27, Brothers-In-Law, Victims of Tragic Accident.

CRASHES IN WHEAT FIELD

Craft Cracks Up Soon After It Circles Home, Falls 200 Yards From House.

A Sunday afternoon airplane ride in which they flew over the scene of a family gathering near Lexington caused the deaths of a pilot and passenger when the plane crashed into a wheat field not 200 yards from where relatives of the two occupants were sitting on the porch.

Killed were Roy Smith, 34, pilot, and Henry Volz, 27, passenger and father of three children. They were brothers-in-law. Both lived on Lexington R. D. 2 about one mile northwest of Lexington village.

It was the first airplane ride for Volz who was dead when relatives pulled him from the wrecked plane. Smith was critically injured and died at General hospital at 2:55 a. m. today.

The plane, a two-passenger low-wing Aeronca monoplane, apparently spun out of a steep left turn at low altitude over the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee B. Smith, the pilot's parents, and plowed into a wheat field, trapping both occupants in the wreckage.

Civil Aeronautics authorities were on the scene immediately after the crash and today were still seeking the definite cause of the tragedy.

The ride started at Mansfield airport where Smith had landed his plane earlier after a trip from Columbus to join his relatives in the family gathering.

Leaving the airport, the pair flew over Mansfield and then toward the Smith home, located near the Dr. J. H. Nichols farm.

There was a crash within seconds after they had soared over

GIVE RELIEF

Showers Cool Off City After Mercury Goes Up To 94.

Two showers shortly after noon cooled off downtown Mansfield today after the mercury had started a climb earlier in the day back towards the year's high of 94 run up yesterday.

Sunday's heat wave washed out in a one-inch rainfall last night that caused no severe storm damage but dropped the temperature to a low of 60 during the night. The average for the last 48 hours was 81.5 as compared with the 18-year average of 71.3.

The weatherman forecast additional thundershowers today and tonight but saw no real break in the unseasonably warm weather until tomorrow morning.

Wreckage Of Plane In Which Two Were Killed

Here is the wreckage of the small airplane in which two men met their deaths yesterday afternoon a mile north of Lexington. Piloted by Roy Smith, 34, (left inset) the plane crashed in a wheat field 200 yards from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee B. Smith. Smith died in General hospital this morning. His brother-in-law, Henry Volz, 27, (right inset), a passenger in the plane, was instantly killed.

City Hit By Beer 'Drought' Along With Rest Of State

Mansfield was in the heart of the "beer dust bowl" today as far as home consumption was concerned.

With the "drought" general over the state, Mansfield's two largest beer supply houses reported that they were either completely sold out or had only a negligible quantity of beer on hand.

One dispenser reported: "We sold out Friday. We didn't have a bottle of beer for sale Saturday and we have none today. We are hoping for delivery soon. It's just a matter of the demand exceeding the supply. We don't intend to ration sales, however. When we get beer we'll sell it until it's gone, then lock up and go fishing."

At another beer supply house, the manager said: "We have just four cases on hand. We are limiting our sales to 12 bottles to a customer. We don't know when we'll get more but we hope it's soon. The breweries just can't meet the demand in this weather. Saturday we had one of the biggest days since we've been in business."

At Columbus where dealers were planning to limit sales to four or six bottles for carry-out purchasers, restrictions on transportation and bottle shortages were blamed for at least part of the shortage.

AWAITS GIRAUD

White House Expects Visit From French Army Leader.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—White House Secretary Stephan T. Early said today that Gen. Henri Giraud, head of the French military forces in North Africa, soon will visit this country.

Early said it was his understanding that Giraud will come in his military capacity, rather than in his political capacity of joint leader with Gen. Charles De Gaulle of the French regime established in Algiers.

He said Giraud will come as a guest of the government but that he did not recall what date had been set for the visit. "Perhaps it's just as good that I don't," he added.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Ernest Frederick Lehmitz, 57, naturalized citizen and an air raid warden, pleaded guilty today when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Martin C. Epstein.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The FBI today announced the arrest of an alleged German spy who had been acting as an air-raid warden at Staten Island, N. Y., on charges of attempting to send information in secret writing to the German intelligence about American troop and convoy movements.

The man seized was Ernest Frederick Lehmitz, a U. S. citizen and employed in a waterfront restaurant frequented by merchant marinemen.

Lehmitz was specifically accused of violation of the federal espionage statutes, which is punishable

Four More Being Held As Possible Army Deserters

Four more possible army deserters had been added today to the "guest list" at Mansfield police headquarters with the arrest yesterday of four colored men.

The four, being held for investigation, are Privates Walton E. Dave, 23, George A. Wilson, 20, Russel Greer, 20, and Woodrow Tucker, 19. All are from Camp Stucker, O.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said none of the four could show passes or furlough papers when they were questioned by [illegible] at 9:30 p. m. yesterday while trying to thumb a ride on [illegible]ington avenue. Bates said he was contacting officers at Camp Stucker in an attempt to de-

Expansion Looming For War Training Program At Airport

Indication that the government's pilot training program at Municipal airport will be greatly expanded was seen today by airport attaches following an unexpected visit here yesterday by the national director of the Civil aeronautics Authority's War Training Service program.

Flying here on his first visit to Mansfield, John P. Norris, of the Washington office of the CAA, recommended immediate construction of an additional hangar at the port and indicated that the quota of army trainees here would be increased in the near future.

The Harrington Air service which operates a flying service at the field under a contract with the government for training army pilots now has three hangars for housing some 30 planes.

At the same time it was announced that for the first time in the 18-year-history of the port that a resident CAA inspector had been assigned here.

In charge of aircraft inspections and flight tests for pilots, Elmer Clark of Battle Creek, Mich., arrived yesterday to take over his duties. He will maintain an office at the port.

Norris made his recommendation yesterday following an inspection of training facilities, including planes, hangars, maintenance shops, classrooms, barracks and administrative offices.

Expressing surprise at the expansive training facilities, Norris told James R. Harrington, president of the flying service that he was "well pleased" with operations of the program here.

Some 50 student pilots are assigned here at present for instruction in cross-country flying.

Allied Bombers Hit Southern Invasion Route

Nazis Report U. S. Battleships Join With British In Mediterranean.

LONDON—American battleships have steamed into the Mediterranean to reinforce British squadrons preparing to escort Allied landing forces to the shores of southern Europe, the Nazi-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph bureau reported today.

The STB dispatch, datelined Berlin, did not identify the American warships, but the report coincided with a general rise in Axis invasion fever, as reflected in reports reaching London from Europe.

European sources said also that the harbor-bound Italian fleet had put to sea, either to seek a safer haven or, less likely, to strike an offensive blow calculated to disrupt any Allied invasion plans.

The British navy, which long has been seeking a chance to strike at the Italian warships, as well as the reported American naval vessels in the Mediterranean were presumed to be primarily concerned at present with invasion preparations, rather than with hunting down the Fascist warships.

There are some experts, however, who believe that the Italian navy might be sacrificed in a final effort to break up the coming Allied invasion. In that event the combined resources of the British and Americans probably would be thrown into a big scale naval and air battle.

A United Press dispatch from Zurich, meanwhile, said that Rome reports indicated expectation of an Allied landing shortly in Sicily, Sardinia or Italy. The dispatch quoted Swiss reports from Rome, where the newspaper Popolo Di Roma said Allied bombing raids and naval activities indicated immediate action.

The reports reached London from Rome by way of Madrid and Stockholm and were attributed to official Italian sources. Madrid, source of many pro-Axis rumors, said the fleet was bound for "offensive operations," but Stockholm reported the warships were en route to safer ports in the Adriatic sea.

A large portion of the Italian fleet last was reported anchored at Spezia, Italy's largest naval Vesuvius Acts As Beacon For U.S. Planes; Huge Fires Rage.

(By United Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA—Allied air squadrons renewed heavy blows against the eastern Mediterannean invasion route over the week-end when American heavy bombers blanketed two Axis airdromes near Athens and RAF Wellingtons again attacked Italy's big industrial and supply vase at Naples.

The American raid by four-engine Liberators from the Ninth air force based in the Middle East spread fire and destruction through the two key airdromes of Eleusis and Hassani, outside the Greek capital on Sunday and scattered leaflets across the city in daylight.

The leaflets dropped on Athens and the countryside by the American fliers carried a small pen and ink picture of President Roosevelt and his speech at Washington navy yard when an American-built warship was transferred to the Greek navy.

The leaflets also showed a small pen and ink picture of Mr. Roosevelt and reproduced his tribute to the courage of the Greeks, expressing hope that the day would be hastened when liberated Greeks again would maintain their government in the shadow of the Acropolis and the Parthenon.

Seven enemy planes were shot down and eight others probably were destroyed for a total of 15 as the Liberators smashed through large formations of enemy fighters and fighter-bombers, which again tried to drop bombs on the big U. S. planes.

The daylight attack on the Athens area followed a damaging raid last week on the main Axis airdrome of Sedes at Salonika, in northern Greece.

(Reports from occupied Greece indicated that Axis fears of an invasion were rapidly spreading to Bulgaria and other southeast Europe areas. The Allied air attacks which followed a pre-invasion pattern inasmuch as they were designed to imobilize air bases which the enemy would need in event of an Allied invasion of the Dodecanese islands or Crete.

FASTER: Americans Attack Kiska Japs Seven More Times

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—American fliers accelerated the tempo of their aerial offensive against Japanese bases at both ends of the Pacific, blasting Kiska in the Aleutians seven more times and delivering six attacks on enemy strongholds in the Solomons, the navy announced today.

The assaults on Kiska, which raised to 16 the total of three consecutive days of attacks on the enemy's base, suggested the possibility of a drive to oust the enemy from its last remaining position in the Aleutians.

Two of the six earlier forays in the Solomons were directed at Munda, the enemy's much bombed air base in the New Georgia group.

Also hit in the Solomons were Kahili, enemy bomber base on Bougainville island; Rekata bay, Japanese submarine and seaplane base on Santa Isabel; Ballale, shipping center in the northwestern Solomons; and Vila, air and supply base on Kolombangara island.

HEROIC: Story Of Citizens' Defense Of Leningrad Revealed

(Editor's Note: This exclusive dispatch is from Henry Shapiro, chief of the United Press bureau in Moscow and the first foreigner to visit Leningrad since the Germans laid siege to the city nearly two years ago.)

BY HENRY SHAPIRO
(UP Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1943)

LENINGRAD—When the Germans hit the gates of Leningrad nearly two years ago, the workmen of a big tank plant handed over their jobs to their wives, yanked their own tanks from the assembly belt, and raced to the front.

They were part of the people's army of workers who, I was told repeatedly today, saved Leningrad in August, 1941, when a Nazi force of 300,000 men, 1,000 planes and 1,000 tanks stormed its ramparts.

And now Leningrad, a city virtually resurrected from the dead, still holds fast and fights and works with a zest and determination I have not seen in any other city of the Soviet Union.

The army of workers speeding out from their plants manned the barricades athwart the suburban streets of Russia's second city and checked the assault.

"Without our workers, Leningrad would doubtless have fallen," the youthful mayor of the old Czarist capital, Peter Popkov, told me. "The Red army had not yet been fully mobilized and the bulk of available troops had been thrown into the critical central front where they were needed worse."

Veterans of former wars and revolutions, the workers formed whole divisions, trained others and supervised the construction of defenses.

Today hundreds of girls and housewives were building still more defenses, manning air raid apparatus, and cultivating vegetables. The daily artillery fire, the air alarms, the continued emergency rations—nothing but death

Husks For Hot Tamales Come From Illinois

JONESBORO, Ill. — (U.P.) — The hot tamale may be an esteemed Mexican titbit, but it is dependent upon Illinois cornfields for much of its picturesqueness.

Sam Allen of Jonesboro has a $10,000 yearly business selling corn husks to tamale manufacturers. A one-man business most of the year, Allen hires experienced cutters during the autumn rush season when the corn wrappers must be harvested.

When the corn is at the right stage of ripeness, Allen and his men carefully husk the ear and deftly remove the outer wrapping of "shucks." Care must be taken not to get dirt into the husk—it is almost antiseptic when first opened. Corn silks must be cleaned out and smutty husks thrown away.

It takes about 5,000 husks to make a 50-pound bale. The bales are then shipped to tamale manufacturers in St. Louis, Chicago, Texas and Georgia.

Allen has been in the business for several years and says it is now at its briskest pace. The demand far outruns the supply.

'Final Victory' Approaches Rapidly, Congress Told

...PS SOON TO ...E HIT HARD, ...ENERAL SAYS

...thiny Officer Tells of Great ...rogress Made By U. S. In Training Big Army.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Congress was assured today the United Nations were rapidly approaching a "final victory" and that the war would be brought home to Japan in such a manner that "the whole empire will feel its full impact in a most violent and destructive way."

This statement from Lieut. General Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, was included in testimony made public by the senate appropriations committee as the senate made ready to pass the army's $71,500,000,000 "decisive budget" war bill.

At one point, General McNarney told Senator Gurney (R-SD) the use of the word "rapidly" might have been an overstatement, but added:

"In the training and equipping of our armies and getting them ready for combat, we have made enormous progress in the last year. We have now committed to act, in concert with other United Nations, a rather large force."

Asserting that "strongly and experienced enemies" confronted the United Nations on widely separated fronts, General McNarney nevertheless declared in a statement bristling with confidence:

"The co-ordinated operation of our land and air forces is rapidly bringing us toward a final victory.

"Our operations in the Pacific have turned the tide of Japanese advance into a gradual withdrawal toward their home bases. Since our victory at Attu, the strategic movements of the Japanese have followed our lead.

"It is our intention to bring the war home to Japan in such a manner that the whole empire will feel its full impact in a most violent and destructive way."

AUTO UPSETS

Mansfielder Injured, Youth Escapes In Auto Mishap.

Ernest Hamm, 21, of 92 East Fourth street, suffered cuts and bruises, and a 16-year-old companion escaped uninjured when the car in which they were riding turned over on State Route 39, three miles northwest of Mansfield.

Hamm was taken to Mansfield General hospital where his condition this morning was reported good.

State patrolmen reported that Hamm was arrested for failing to have a 1943 automobile license sticker. He will appear in Mansfield municipal court after he recovers from injuries.

According to patrolmen, the boys were traveling toward Shelby.

The car was badly damaged.

CLAIM RECORD

U. S. Steel's Lorain Plant Ships Last of 'Big Inch.'

WASHINGTON —(AP)— U. S. Steel corporation subsidiaries claimed a record today for the National Tube company at Lorain, O., in production of 280,106 tons of seamless steel pipe since last July for the 1,272-mile oil pipe line from Texas to the east coast.

A U. S. Steel statement said the last train load of 24-inch pipe for the "big inch" has gone to its destination and crews of pipe-liners are laying the last leg from Norris City, Ill., to Phoenixville, Pa.

In claiming production in record time, the statement said on many occasions the 41-foot steel pipe sections were turned out at a speed of six miles a day, or enough to load a train of 45 cars.

THREE COUPLES ON PROBATION

Three young couples and their parents were reprimanded and placed on probation this morning by Judge Stuart Cramer.

Three 15 year old girls and three boys, one 18 and two 17, were picked up by local police Saturday morning at 4:30 a. m. at Liberty park.

A curfew hour of 9 p. m. for six months was ordered for the girls. One 17 old boy leaves for the navy tomorrow and the other is being held until juvenile authorities can find a responsible person to parole him to, as he has not been living with either of his parents.

Dean Williams, 18, of 57 South Diamond street, was charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors and put on two years probation to juvenile authorities.

WOMAN CARRIES MAIL

SOUTH PASADENA, Cal. —(U.P.)—Mrs. Emma F. Filkins, wife of Postal Clerk Glenn Filkins, has just been appointed by Postmaster George Hugh Banning to be the first woman mail carrier for this city. She had to qualify for a 10-to-15-mile daily route with an average mail load of 40 pounds. All California postoffices have lost heavily of their personnel to the armed forces, and while it is easy to find women mail clerks, Mrs. Filkins is the first to join the carriers.

Another Lions club feature this week is a stag picnic Wednesday at the cottage of Dr. Paul R. Maxwell at Walton Lake. Members are to meet at the Kafer flower store, North Mulberry street, at 6 p. m. and proceed to the lake.

WOUNDED YANKS ARRIVE IN OHIO FOR TREATMENT

African Campaign Veterans To Be Treated at New Cambridge Hospital.

(By Associated Press)

CAMBRIDGE — War's grimness made itself felt in Ohio Saturday as the new $5,000,000 Fletcher General hospital here received its first contingent of wounded soldiers — nearly 100 fighting men from the African battlefields.

Their arrival in three hospital ward cars marked with American Red Cross insignia was without fanfare. It took just 24 minutes to unload them under the direction of Col. Taylor E. Darby, commanding officer.

It was a solemn moment when the train eased into a siding. Waiting on the platform were 12 invalid chairs, 17 stretcher carts and eight hand-borne litters.

Enlisted men in fatigue suits mingled with white-coated members of the medical corps at the foot of two ramps leading from the platform. Staff nurses clustered at ward entrances to see the men who were to become their charges.

First to emerge from the train were the "walking" cases. Their eyes in their deeply tanned faces looked neither to right nor left as they came down the ramp to be escorted to their new quarters. Some walked with a limp, some with a slight shuffle.

A cane helped Pvt. Charles Brown of Baltimore, Md., whose two sisters, Miss Lorene Brown and Mrs. Asa Powers, live in Marietta. His knee was injured while he was serving with the coast artillery in North Africa.

Next came those in invalid chairs, among them Pvt. Robert J. Roberts of Madison, Wis., recovering from malaria.

"It kinda got me on the trail last night, but I'll be okeh," he smiled.

The train left Halloran General hospital, Staten Island, N. Y., yesterday.

"Ohio sure looks good again, was the sentiment expressed by Pvt. Robert D. Hronek of Cincinnati, whose broken leg made a stretcher cart necessary.

Later, comfortably settled in their new quarters, the soldiers lost some of their grimness. Their first thought was of mail home—to let the folks know where they were; some even talked of telephone calls later in the day.

Arrival at Fletcher hospital was somewhat of a homecoming for 20-year-old Pvt. Emile M. Darchicourt of Baltimore, Md. He was born at East Cambridge where his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Collart, still live.

In a bed across the ward was Pfc. William R. Osburn of Marietta, 38-year-old truck driver. So adept has he become at lip-reading that others are surprised to learn of his deafness.

Concussion from a 6-inch gun fired as the first United States troops were landing in Africa, back in November, impaired his hearing.

"Yep, I was one of the first to get it," grinned Osburn. He was hospitalized several months abroad before being sent back in April.

Hospital officials expressed pride in the dispatch with which the first contingent of wounded were established in their quarters.

OPERATOR OF THEATER DIES

KILLBUCK — Carl Duncan, 60, died early today in Coshocton City hospital following an appendectomy Saturday.

A life-long resident of Holmes county, he owned and operated the Duncan theater here.

Surviving are his widow, Harriet; a son, William, in the army; two brothers, Fred and Dr. John H. Duncan, and a sister, Mrs. Ada Bedford, all of Killbuck.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p. m. Thursday at the Methodist church. Rev. A. F. Uphoff will officiate. Burial will be in Killbuck cemetery.

ASK MORE CASH FOR DEPENDENTS

Armed Forces Propose Boost In Payments To Families of Men In Ranks.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The armed forces recommended to congress today a minimum increase of 10 per cent in the dependency allowances to children of military personnel in the lower ranks, along with broadening of the whole allowance system.

The effect of the proposed increases, incorporated in a bill introduced by Chairman Reynolds (D., N. C.) of the senate military committee, would be to boost the allowance for a wife with one child from the present $62 a month to $68. Each additional child would receive $11 instead of $10.

A wife with no children would continue to receive $50, of which the government contributes $28 and the enlisted man $22. The government meets entire cost of allowances for children.

The proposed increases would boost government dependency outlays a total of $393,000,000 yearly, Johnson said.

325 STUDENTS WON'T WAIT

BERKELEY, Cal.—(U.P.)—Stating they do not want to wait to do their part in the war, 325 young men on the campus of the University of California have asked to be indoctrinated immediately in training for the Navy. A special course has been arranged for them.

GETS $5 FINE

T. A. Greenwald, 24 Arnold avenue, was fined $5 and costs this morning in municipal court on a plea of guilty to charges of driving through a red light. The complaint was filed by Sylvester Shadel, 563 South Diamond street, following a collision late Saturday at the corner of Fifth and Diamond streets involving cars driven by Shadel and Greenwald.

Arrested by city patrolmen on a similar charge Saturday evening, Giocanni Guerini, Lima, waived an appearance bond of $11.30.

ILL FOR YEAR

O. C. Ewers, 71, Ex-Farmer Near Bellville, Dies.

Otis Clayton Ewers, 71, of 23 Huffman avenue, died at Mansfield General hospital Sunday afternoon following an illness of a year. He was born in Knox county, July 7, 1871, and operated a farm near Bellville for many years.

In 1919 he retired and moved to Mansfield to make his home.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Burnette Stowe Ewers, a daughter, Mrs. Karl Kauf of Mansfield, and a brother, Edward Ewers of Fredericktown.

He was a member of St. Matthew's Lutheran church and the K. of P. lodge of Bellville. The body was removed to the Jones Memorial where services will be conducted Tuesday at 4 p. m. by Rev. Charles F. Sheriff. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

RITES TUESDAY

Girl Victim of Boat Mishap To Be Buried at Mt. Vernon.

Funeral services for Betty Jean Stringfellow, 6, accidentally drowned Saturday night at Charles Mill dam when she was thrown from a motor boat as it capsized, will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Brandon Methodist church near Mt. Vernon.

The body is at the family home, Fifth avenue and Orange street, where a short funeral service will be conducted Tuesday at 12:30 p. m. by Rev. Hugh Waite. Burial will be in Brandon cemetery.

The child was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow G. Stringfellow. Besides the parents, she is survived by two sisters, Nancy Ellen and Annabelle, one brother, Clyde, and grandparents, Mrs. Janice Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thomas, all of Mt. Vernon.

MARK GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Snapp, 138 Vernum avenue, will observe their golden wedding anniversary at their home tomorrow. They are the parents of a daughter, Mrs. Harry Craig of Columbus.

Both have resided in Mansfield for 49 years, Mr. Snapp being affiliated with the Albert F. Remy company for more than 40 years. He has served as secretary-treasurer of the United Commercial Travelers for 30 years. Both are members of the First Presbyterian church.

WAKES UP IN TIME

RENO, Nev. —(U.P.)— Sheriff's deputies thought they had rescued all occupants of a house isolated by a flood of the Truckee river. As they paddled away they heard shouts from an upstairs window. Returning, they found a man in bed with a broken leg who'd been asleep when the rescuers first came.

JOAN'S MOTHER AGAIN

HOLLYWOOD—(U.P.)—Joan Bennett and her new daughter were reported "doing fine" today. The actress gave birth to her third child at Good Samaritan hospital. The baby was her first by her present husband, Walter Wanger.

FLAMING DEBRIS KILLS CHILDREN

Three Die as Plane Crashes on Crowded Beach; Six Others Injured.

(By United Press)

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Cal.—Three children died today of injuries received when a burning P-38 fighter plane crashed into a crowded beach area and exploded, scattering blazing debris.

Faith Borrega, 8, Rosalva Borrega, 5, and Francis Silva, 4, all of Garden Grove, died at Orange county hospital. They were burned when the pilotless plane struck the sand near where they were eating a picnic lunch Sunday.

Six other persons were reported in critical condition, and 39 others were treated for injuries and burns received when burning gasoline showered their bodies.

Army officials started an investigation. The pilot, who bailed out and landed a mile away, was taken to the Santa Ana army air base.

The plane, which burst into flames in the air, crashed on a strip of land between the ocean and the coast highway, packed with scores of cars, and narrowly missed a more densely occupied beach area to the north.

MEETING SET

War Plant Representatives To Have Contract Discussion.

Representatives of war plants in Mansfield Shelby, Ashland, Galion, Crestline, Mt. Vernon, Plymouth, Bucyrus, and Loudonville will meet Wednesday at 4 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce room to discuss war contracts.

Local area representatives of the Navy, Air Force and Army and their inspectors will also attend the meeting arranged by the Mansfield Manufacturers' club and the Smaller War Plants Corporation.

John C. Barker, regional procurement specialist, is to be here from Cleveland to discuss with the industrialists the obaining and renewing of war contracts.

Reese Mills, president of the Manufacturers club, will preside at the meeting.

American Flier Bags Five Japs In 45 Minutes

ADVANCED U. S. BASE, South Pacific—(U.P.)—Lieut. Murray Shubin, 26, Pittsburgh, Pa., became an ace within 45 minutes by shooting down five Japanese Zero fighters and probably destroying a sixth, belated reports of the Guadalcanal air battle of June 16 disclosed today.

Headquarters said Shubin's was believed to be the largest bag of enemy fighters in a single combat. Announcement was delayed until three planes shot down were verified by an infantry captain who watched the battle from the ground.

Shubin's plane was not touched. He led a flight of four Lightnings attacking 10 to 15 Japanese Zeros from the rear.

EXPECT HITLER TO CALL HOME U-BOAT FLEET

British Naval Observers Say Action Depends on Outcome of Battle of Atlantic.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Adolf Hitler may pull back his U-boats to defend the European coast when he becomes convinced he is losing the battle of the Atlantic to escort craft and land-based Allied planes, naval observers said today.

One qualified observer said such a course probably had not yet been taken by the Germans since the submarine is chiefly a weapon for the destruction of shipping and any other use would be purely secondary.

However, it was believed the Nazis are thinking of such usage in view of their increasing losses at sea.

Observers said the reasonable answer to the remarkable edge maintained by the Allies over the submarines had not been credited to the obvious answer—the surface-air combination attack.

Value of the small "Woolworth" carriers—converted merchant ships—has been considerable in tilting the balance but their full worth has not yet been ascertained, these sources pointed out.

The speculation of the observers centered largely on whether the submarines were being withdrawn from the Atlantic—possibly for fitting of anti-aircraft guns—or were being outwitted by change of convoy routes.

They agreed that the major reason for the improvement in the record for the Allied side was the increased land-based air cover and they doubted that the U-boats would develop any effective defnese against them.

The subs, they pointed out, would rather dive and try to escape than fight the aircraft and at best could amount no more than two A-A guns, not enough to battle a modern airplane.

GETS 3 YEARS

Woman Sentenced For Threats To Governor Bricker.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood today sentenced Mrs. Frances Mary Macaratzes, 32-year-old Columbus laundry worker, to three years in prison for sending a threatening letter through the mail to Gov. John W. Bricker.

Mrs. Macaratzes asserted in the letter that she was acting under "direct orders" from Hitler.

The court recommended medical treatment for the woman. Mrs. Macaratzes remarked: "I am sorry for everything. I didn't mean to do anything wrong."

HEAR WRITER AND HISTORIAN

A public meeting sponsored by Townsend club members, will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at Radio City hall, 64 North Walnut street, with Samuel Harden Stille, historian and writer, as guest speaker.

Stille, known as "the poet of the hills," was a special writer on the Cincinnati Enquirer and Scripps-Howard papers. He is the author of "Ohio Builds a Nation."

Coming from one of the oldest families in America, his immediate ancestors migrated from New England to Marietta, O., in 1790. He has traveled over the country lecturing on many subjects. He spent two years in Mexico where he was a guest of the government.

END RECRUITING

Navy To Accept Applications From SPARS Till June 30

After June 30, the navy will discontinue recruiting women for the SPARS, Coast Guard Women's Reserve, Harry H. Houck, local recruiter, announced today.

He said the coast guard will assume responsibility for the recruiting and no applications will be received at the Mansfield navy recruiting station after June 30, though cases in process will be completed.

After July 1 women interested in this service will apply through the coast guard office in Cleveland.

CARTERET, N. J. — (INS) — The F. B. I. was making an inquiry today into the cause of an explosion that killed two men and injured four others when a shower of molten metal rained down on them at the plant of the U. S. Metals Refining company.

Those killed, when a cauldron exploded, were Joseph Krystosiak, 59, and John Metro, 50, both of Carteret.

RECEIVES HIGH WOMEN'S AWARD

Mrs. Kiene, Home Economist at Westinghouse, Honored By Advertising Club.

Mrs. Julia Kiene, manager of the Westinghouse home economics institute, today received the 1942 Josephine Snapp award given each year to the woman who does the most for advertising.

The award, sponsored by the Women's Advertising club of Chicago, was presented to Mrs. Kiene at the 39th annual Advertising Federation of America conference at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

The Mansfield woman's "Health For Victory" club won her the award. The war plant nutrition program in operation at Westinghouse for 16 months, is now being used by 1,116 industrial plants and other organizations throughout the country.

A native of Kansas and a graduate of Kansas State college, Mrs. Kiene taught home economics at Oshkosh, Wis., was a home demonstration agent in Topeka, Kan., and has been home economics editor of Capper's Farmer.

The award is given in memory of the late Josephine Snapp, who was president of the Chicago organization and a vice president of the Advertising Federation of America.

Harold Wilson Matteson Takes Miss Martha Louise Phillipon As Bride In Beautiful Ceremony Sunday Afternoon.

THE St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church was chosen as the scene for the wedding of Miss Martha Louise Phillipon and Harold Wilson Matteson Sunday afternoon. Rev. Paul H. Saleste read the double ring service at 3:30 p. m. before an altar banked with palms and beauty baskets of Regal lilies and delphinium.

Mrs. Helen Heston played a program of nuptial music preceding the ceremony. She included "Ave Maria," by Franz Schubert, "Indian Love Call," by Rudolf Friml, "I Love You Truly," by Carrie Jacobs Bond, and the traditional wedding marches. During the ceremony the organist played "O Promise Me."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white crepe jersey, fashioned princess style with a full skirt. The gown had a sweetheart neckline and bracelet length sleeves. The bride wore a single strand of pearls. Her veil of finger tip length was held in place of a seed pearl trimmed tiara.

The bride carried an orchid bouquet with swansonia and streamers entwined with flowers.

Mrs. Louis Letizia, sister of the bride, was the bride's matron of honor. She wore a gown of rose crepe fashioned with a full skirt with inserts of ribbon and lace around the bodice and neckline. The sleeves were bracelet length. She wore a small hat of matching ribbon and lace.

The matron of honor's bouquet was one of colonial style with various pastel shades of flowers tied with white ribbon.

Mrs. Phillipon attended her daughter's wedding in a powder blue crepe frock with which she wore white accessories. Mother of the bridegroom wore a frosty blue silk frock with white accessories. Both corsages were of pink rosebuds.

Raymond Garrison and Louis Letizia, brothers-in-law of the bride were ushers. Frank Prinz, jr., brother-in-law of the bridegroom was best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held for the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents. Luncheon was served buffet style from a refreshment table centered with an arrangement of garden flowers and a three tiered wedding cake topped with a bride and groom.

When the newlyweds left for a wedding trip, the destination which was not disclosed, the new Mrs. Matteson was wearing a two-piece silk crepe frock of aqua and broth. She wore white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Matteson are graduates of Madison high school. Mrs. Matteson has been employed in the accounting department of the Tappan Stove company. She is a member of Sigma Kappa Gamma sorority.

Mr. Matteson completed his flight officers' training in Berlington, Vt., and is employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company while waiting to be called for duty. Mrs. Matteson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Phillipon of Ridge road. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Matteson, 21 Douglas avenue are the parents of Mr. Matteson.

Out of town guests at the wedding included Mrs. Zenie McClead and Miss Ruth McClead of Vermilion and Miss Florence Matteson of Athens.

Service Read Sunday At First Church Of God

Before a group of friends and relatives Miss Ruby Sadler, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sadler of Mt. Gilead, became the bride of Cpl. Larry King Sunday afternoon at 4 p. m. at the First Church of God. Rev. Helen Wright was the officiating pastor.

The altar was embanked with palms and baskets of white rambler roses and blue delphinium. Appropriate nuptial music was played by Miss Frances Thompson of Akron. Soloists were Mrs. Walter Furbay, sr., and Rev. Wright.

The former Miss Sadler was attired in a blue street-length dress with a white halo hat. She wore a shoulder corsage of a double spray of sweetheart roses and blue delphinium. She carried a small white testament.

Miss Lovie Sadler, sister of the bride, wore a sheer pastel green frock and a white halo hat. Her front style bouquet was made of the same flowers as the bride's.

Walter Furbay, sr., with whom Cpl. King has made his home for the past few years, was the best man.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gibson. The buffet style tea was served from a table centered with a wedding cake decorated with pink rosebuds. Miniature bouquets of sweet peas, delphinium and honeysuckle were placed throughout the house.

The couple is taking a short wedding trip through the northern part of the state.

The new Mrs. King is a graduate of Mt. Gilead high school and for the past two years has been a nurse in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gibson, where she will remain for the present.

Cpl. King is stationed at Ft. Barrancas, Fla., where he is a swimmnig instructor.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mozier, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sadler and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Furbay, sr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Furbay, jr., all of Mt. Gilead, and Miss Thompson of Akron.

Betrothal Told At Tea Given By Mrs. O. D. Steil

Friends of Miss Katherine Louise Steil learned of her engagement to Robert Shealor Neese, a first lieutenant in the Army Air corps, at an announcement tea Sunday afternoon, at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Dettmer Steil, Pinecrest.

Twenty-five guests were in attendance at the tea, including two of Miss Steil's friends from Swectbriar college, where she has been attending. They were Miss Barbara Duncombe of Chicago and Miss Jean Moores of Springfield.

Lieut. Neese is a graduate of Ohio State university. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Neese. The couple have planned a wedding for July 31.

Post-Nuptial Shower Fetes Recent Bride

Mrs. Francis Stulpin, nee Miss Agnes Doyle, was feted with a shower Friday night at the home of Miss Hazel Payron, 373 Springmill street.

During the evening the guests hemmed towels and played games. Prizes were won by the Misses Thelma Doyle and Ann Stulpin, who presented them to the honoree. The bride was the recipient of many lovely gifts. The hostess presented her with a blanket.

Refreshments were served at a long table decorated in pastel shades and centered with a wedding cake which was topped with a miniature bride and groom. White tapers lighted the table.

Mrs. Stulpin recently returned from Columbus, Miss., where the wedding took place. She expects soon to join her husband in Texas where he is stationed.

V. D. Greenwalt Elected Head Of Veteran Chapter

V. D. Greenwalt has been elected as the new president of Luther Swigart chapter, Rainbow Division Veterans. He succeeds Paul Williams. Mr Greenwalt and other officers were elected at a meeting and picnic held at the South park.

Others who were elected were Ray Underwood as vice president; Harry J. SirLouis, secretary-treasurer; Charles H. Olds, sergeant at arms; A. L. White, re-elected chaplain and Harry J. SirLouis, re-elected state trustee.

Members of a committee were appointed to arrange a picnic at the Charles H. Olds farm on the South Main road in August.

The Sarah E. Lewis Junior club held its regular meeting at Memorial hall. Each member contributed a handkerchief for the orphans at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphan home at Xenia. Delegates have been appointed to attend the department convention at Columbus, June 28.

Engagement Revealed At Informal Party Saturday

AT AN informal party at their home Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent C. Young of Groose Pointe, Mich., announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Patricia Altman Young, to George Harrison Lowrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison D. Lowrey of this city.

The bride-elect was graduated from the University of Michigan last month. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. She leaves today for Washington, D. C., where she will work with the Government Map Making bureau.

Mr. Lowrey is a senior at the University of Michigan, College of Medicine. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi and Nu Sigma Nu fraternities. He has also been elected to the honor medical society of the Alpha Omega Alpha.

Upon receiving his degree in October, he will take his interneship in Cincinnati, under the United States Navy program.

The wedding will take place some time during the month of October.

Miss Ruth Harris Weds R. E. Miller In Springfield

Miss Ruth Harris, daughter of Mrs. Alpha Harris, 28 Edwards avenue, became the bride of Russell E. Miller of Springfield, in a quiet ceremony performed Sunday at 11:45 a. m. by Rev. Charles R. Smith in the Lagonda United Brethren church in Springfield.

For her wedding the new Mrs. Miller chose a sheer navy blue street length dress with white accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The couple was unattended.

A dinner was held following the ceremony at the home of Mrs. Harry Sowers in Springfield. The couple left for a short wedding trip immediately following the reception.

The former Miss Harris, a graduate of Harding high school, is employed at the T. R. Sammons Outdoor Advertising company. She will reside at home for the present.

Mr. Miller, the son of James A. Miller of Orrville, attended Oberlin college and Ohio Wesleyan. He is the principal property and supply clerk at Patterson field, Springfield.

Gordon Begins to Hit Again

Flash Gets Four Safeties In Split With Red Sox.

(By Associated Press)

The latest hospital reports indicate Joe Gordon's long-ailing bat may be about to sit up and take a little nourishment again.

The patient is still pretty weak with a hitting "temperature" of only .238 at the moment, which means no visitors and plenty of sunshine still to come. But in the last few days it's been showing that there are still signs of life. Topping off the "recovery" with four hits in the twin bill the Yankees cut up with the Red Sox yesterday — including a two-run homer that won the opener for the Bombers—the Flash has chipped in with eight safe wallops in four games and pulled his average up 45 points.

His has been one of the worst slumps in modern times, largely because there didn't seem to be any reason for it.

There were such things yesterday as Hurler Howie Krist winning both ends of a doubleheader for the St. Louis Cardinals; Cleveland's Oris Hockett, who once wanted to quit baseball, climbing to the top of the American league batting pile, and the Cincinnati Reds taking both ends of a double bill for the first time since last September.

As for the pennant chases, both leagues might just as well have stood in bed, because the Yanks held onto their two-game bulge in the American league and the Cards stayed half-a-game in front in the National.

Gordon's homer gave the Yanks a 3-2 opener win over the Red Sox, but in the afterpiece Bobby Doerr belted a four-bagger to tie the score and then knocked in the deciding run with a hit in the 12th for a 4-3 decision. Washington's second-place Senators, after taking the first game from the Athletics, 9-0, blew the nightcap 5-4 when the A's shoved three runs across in the ninth inning, two of them on Jojo White's single.

The Cards clouted the Chicago Cubs 3-32 on Danny Litwhiler's two homers, and 4-3 on a two-run rally in the eighth, with Krist taking both verdicts in relief roles. The cooled-off Brooklyn Dodgers got hot and flailed the Phillies 9-4 and 6-0, with Rube Melton serving up a three-hitter for the nightcap.

Elmer Riddle tossed a seven-hitter and ancient Ray Starr and Joe Beggs got together on a six-hitter as the Reds swept the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 and 5-1 to move into the National league's first division. The Boston Braves bombed the New York Giants 10-1 with a seven-run sixth inning spree in the opener. Then Mel Ott's Otters came back 6-0 in the second act behind Johnny Wittig's five-hit elbowing.

Women Golfers Open Tourney

CHICAGO—(INS)—The Women's Western Golf association, presenting a field of nearly 100 players, set out today in its "salute to victory" open tournament to determine a successor to Betty Jameson of San Antonio for the 1943 championship.

Miss Jameson, winner of the 1942 tournament, now is in Mexico City and was not able to come to Chicago to defend her title. She was about the only one of the top-ranking women golfers who did not show up at the Glan Oak Country club for the play which will continue through Friday.

The tournament was to be opened by an honor guard of WAVES, WAACS, SPARS and Marines forming a quadrangle on the clubhouse lawn, while Mrs. Fred A. Burte of Evanston, Ill., president of the WWGA, delivered the welcoming address.

Topping the list of 1943 entrants was Patty Berg of Minneapolis who won the 1938 women's national championship and also the medal and title in the 1941 women's western open at Cincinnati.

Hagen Loses In First Round

DETROIT — (INS) — Sporting circles were amazed today when they discovered that Walter Hagen, winner of virtually every major championship open to a professional golfer, was shut out—and in amateur competition.

"The Haig," 50 years old, with his partner, Bill Roberts, lost on the first round of a playoff in the Red Run invitational tournament, rolling up a 73 for a last place tie.

"Lack of practice and competition" was blamed for the Haig's failure.

Life Doesn't End at 40 for Hubbell and Fitz

Hubbell years ago

Forty years old and still going strong. That's the distinction shared by these two star pitchers in the National league, Carl Hubbell of the Giants, left, and Freddie Fitzsimmons of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

It's Fitzsimmons

By WALTER L. JOHNS
(Central Press Sports Writer)

Life may not begin at 40, but it certainly doesn't end there for a baseball pitcher.

Proof of that can be found in the National league today, where two former pitching buddies of the New York Giants, Frederick Fitzsimmons and Carl Owen Hubbell are still working their salary whips for pay.

Fitzsimmons is 41 and Hubbell has just turned 40. And each is a regular pitcher for their respective clubs, the Dodgers and the Giants.

At an age when most athletes are sitting among their scrapbooks or puttering around down on the farm, Fitzsimmons and Hubbell are toiling on the mound and recording important victories for their clubs.

Fitz a Comeback.

Fitzsimmons, born July 28, 1901, is a "comebacker," having walked off the pitching mound "for good" last year when he turned to coaching the Dodgers. "Fat Freddie's" services were needed this year because of the shortage of player help due to the war, so he returned to action and has pitched several good games.

Hubbell, however, has been the "meal ticket" of the Giants ever since 1919. He has won three games this year and has been the only consistent Giant winner.

Fitz preceded King Carlos to the Giants, arriving in New York in 1925 from Indianapolis. Hubbell entered the Giant organization in 1928 after a five-year minor league career which saw him go from Cushing in the Oklahoma State league to Ardmore, Oklahoma City, Denver, Toronto, Decatur and Beaumont before joining and sticking with the New York Nationals.

Hub More Impressive.

Fitz's minor league career was also of five years duration but he didn't use up so many railroad tickets. He broke in with Muskegon in the Central league in 1920 and after two years went to Indianapolis where he stayed until he joined the Giants.

The Fitzsimmons-Hubbell team rivalry ended when Fitz was traded to Brooklyn in June of 1937.

Hubbell's record is much more impressive than that of Fitz, but both have been standout National league hurlers. In 15 years in the majors, Hubbell has won over 250 games, having passed that mark with his first win of this season. Fitz has won 217 games in 18 seasons.

In five straight seasons, Hubbell won 20 or more games, reaching his peak in 1936 when he won 26 games against six losses and hurled the Giants into the world series.

Fitz won 20 games in only one season, 1928, but he compiled victories for an .889 percentage in 1940.

Fitz was born at Mishawaka, Ind., and Hubbell at Carthage, Mo. Hub hurled a no-hit, no-run game against Pittsburgh, May 8, 1929, for his most outstanding performance.

DAVIS FAVORED TO WHIP TRIBUANI

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Al (Bummy) Davis, of New York, today ruled a 7-5 favorite to take tonight's 10-round feature bout from Wilmington's Al Tribuani, despite the fact that he came off on the losing end of a split decision in a similar match five weeks ago.

An estimated 8,000 capacity crowd will jam the outdoor arena to see the 150 pound Wilmington welterweight defend his hard-fought victory, awarded him despite a ninth inning knockdown.

Indians Split Double Bill With Chisox

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Indians have the largest pitching staff in the American league but Manager Lou Boudreau has needed his assortment of 12 flingers.

The Tribe pilot has employed 35 hurlers in the last 15 games and only three moundsmen—Jim Bagby, Al Smith and Chubby Dean—have gone the distance in that period.

Although the Chicago White Sox made only six hits and one run in the opener of a double header at the Stadium yesterday, four Tribe elbowers were used to register a 2 to 1 victory.

The Sox came back with a 2 to 0 triumph in the afterpiece, cut to five innings by weather.

Jack Salveson started for Cleveland in the first tussle and allowed the Sox their only run in the third when Guy Curtright smacked a home run into the left field seats. The rookie outfielder also connected safely in the nightcap to stretch his hitting streak to 24 consecutive games.

Allie Reynolds went to the hill in the fourth and pitched four hitless innings but was removed for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Reynolds received credit for the win—his first of the season.

The Indians are scheduled today and tomorrow. They open a three-game series with the New York Yankees Wednesday night in a benefit game for the National War Fund, Inc.

College Golfers Tee Off Today

CHICAGO—(INS)—A field of 75 contestants from 22 colleges and universities prepared to tee off today in quest of team and individual titles in the 46th national collegiate championship golf tournament at Olympia Fields Country club.

The middle west, represented by Michigan, Northwestern, Ohio State and Notre Dame, was expected to make a strong bid for both titles.

Louisiana State's foursome, headed by Capt. Dale Morey, was out to defend its team title against the midwest golfers and teams from Yale, Texas and Princeton, but Sandy Tatum of Stanford was not on hand to defend his individual title as he has finished competition.

The whole field will swing into action in the morning session of 18 holes with the low 32 scorers qualifying for the first round of match play in the afternoon.

In order to keep the team play a 36-hole game, this afternoon's matches were put on medal play rules with each contestant counting his full score and holing all putts. All team members who fail to qualify for match play must go through 18 more holes of medal play to decide the team score.

Regular rules will go into effect tomorrow when the 16 match play survivors meet, with the semi-finals and title match scheduled for Wednesday.

Supplies, Legion Clubs Win

League Leaders Tally In Last of Ninth To Cop.

Athletic Supply pushed over a run in the last half of the ninth inning yesterday to edge out a 6 to 5 victory over last place Yunckers at Liberty park in one of the two Commercial baseball league battles.

American Legion nine trimmed East End Merchants, 11 to 5 in the other tilt at the Fairground.

In the Liberty park battle, the unbeaten league-leading Athletics were forced to go all out to edge the victory-starved Sports. The A's scored once in each of the first two innings to take a 2 to 0 lead. Yunckers tied it up in the fourth with a pair of tallies, but the A's pushed over two in their half of the fifth to go ahead again.

The Sports made it 4 to 3 in the sixth when they chalked up another marker, and they moved ahead 5 to 4 in the eighth with two more.

Athletics rallied to tie it in their half of the eighth and went on to win in the ninth.

Jack Elliott, Ontario's contribution to the loop, went all the way for the Athletics. He gave only four hits and struck out 11. His opponent, Tinkey, also went the distance on the hill for the losers, giving 14 hits, fanning 10 and walking four.

* * *

American Legion, although getting only five hits, walked over the East End Merchants, 11 to 5. The Legion built up a 10 to 0 lead in the first six innings and coasted from there in.

Jim McCarrick started in the box for the Legion and went eight innings to get credit for the victory.

A highlight of this game was Dewey Durant's relief pitching in the ninth inning. The venerable Durant struck out the side in the ninth after he relieved McCarrick.

Blank and Eckels worked for the Merchants, with Blank suffering the defeat.

As it looks now, the race is a two team affair, with the Athletics on top with six straight victories and the Legion in second place with a record of four wins and two defeats.

DI MAGGIO'S HOMER WINS FOR ARMY

TAFT, Cal.—(INS)—Poking out a two-run homer in the fifth inning, Jolting Joe DiMaggio yesterday sparked his Santa Ana army air base team to a 6 to 4 victory over Gardner field. It was the 18th straight win for the Santa Ana team.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The International track meet in which Gunder Haegg, Swedish distance runner, will compete July 31 was awarded by the Cleveland A. A. U. committee to Baldwin-Wallace college at nearby Berea.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—End of the great experiment: Al Lang, the voice of St. Pete, is touring the major league cities dropping hints that Florida would be glad to have the baseball clubs train there again next spring—especially since the army is giving up its leases on a lot of hotels.

NO LOSS THERE

Laudie Apitz, University of Louisville athletic director, reports that out of 25 men who made up his 1938 football squad, 20 are army and navy officers, one is a preacher, one a private, one a sergeant and two are chemists in a war plant. The varsity backfield, if reassembled, would consist of one chemist, two air force captains and one air force major. . . . This, says Apitz, justifies football in every school in the land as far as he is concerned.

Teams have been organized where ever more than 18 Americans could be found, and the International Baseball league has come into being, wtih free gratis passes and all. Comprising the league are teams representing most of the United Nations and even a team of dignified London Bobbies "pitch" and "swat," steal in competition with the Americans.

Staid Britishers who last year didn't know there was such a place now speak knowingly of "Texas leaguers," and, upon rare occasions, at least one among the thousands of spectators has been heard to shout "take him out," "bean 'im" or "'es a bloomin' robber, 'e is," as Londoners from polished Westender to enthusiastic Cockney turned out to see America's favorite game.

To help along the program, the largest catering organization in London, whose Corner Houses are famous from Calgary to Rangoon, and which is to England what Childs is to America, has turned over their completely equipped stadium, swimming pool and dance hall to the American service men and their allies for Sunday ball games, swims and dances—partners for the latter being supplied from among their employes.

One Sunday's game between Headquarters personnel and members of a transportation unit was still being played all over London today, despite the grim finality of the score of 7 to 4 with the Headquarters team on top.

Corporal Albert Dessauer, Seavey road, Pittsburgh, got credit for pitching the winning game, although Lieutenant Victor K. Harwood, Shaftsbury, Vt., contributed much to the win.

Nearly a thousand service men attended the hard fought game and there was, according to Captain Sterns, many more civilians than there were service men.

American soldiers have already taught the British much including gum chewing, cheek to cheek dancing and slang. Again quoting Captain Sterns it "seems the British are about to learn baseball and then the invasion will be complete."

Ken Kavanaugh, ex-Chicago Bears end, is flying a bomber for Gen. Jimmy Doolittle and making frequent visits to Sicily. . . . Winner of a recent service tennis tournament at Oklahoma A. and M. was Don Goldbeck, army preflight student who is considered one of Texas' better racquet wielders. Other entries included Bob Deacon of Arkansas, John Tarrant of Illinois, Harry Mack, California state collegiate champion in 1939 and 1941 and Abraham Levitan, a good junior player in New York.

MONDAY MATINEE

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Dick Cullum, Minneapolis Times: "The football of 1943 will be the players' game. That is the coach either gives it to the players or they won't play it. They'll want to play a more reckless, happy-go-lucky game, taking the big chance, laughing off mistakes, throwing the ball around, letting off the tension of getting ready for war."

Louis Ready To Go Overseas

CHICAGO — (INS) — Sgt. Joe Louis, world heavyweight boxing champion, said today before leaving for Detroit he would welcome an assignment in North Africa where United Nations forces are massing for the next move against the Axis.

Louis at present is assigned to Fort Riley where, among his duties, he teaches a boxing class in the daytime and again from 7 to 9 p. m., he said. He likes that, he also would like active service, but possibly most of all he would like to see "can I still fight."

The sergeant has just finished five months in Hollywood on the picture, "This Is The Army." He told of being on the same train with Lieut. Col. James Roosevelt coming east.

"He showed me a lot of Japanese money and told me some funny stories about the war," Joe said.

The champion will see his mother in Detroit and will report in Pittsburgh July 3 where he will receive instructions on his duties during his present trip, he said.

GULFSTREAM ASKS RIGHT TO OPERATE

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—Gulfstream Park today opens its bid to revive racing at the plant closed since 1939 by applying to the Florida racing commission for horse racing dates for next winter.

Jimmy Donn, who heads a group of Floridians backing the track, said the plant will ask for one-third of the 122 days available under the new racing law.

The commission meets next month to pass on the bids.

WINS TROPHY RACE

TOLEDO —(AP)— George Naumann of the Detroit Yacht club yesterday skippered the yawl Estrellita to victory on the annual 55-mile Merril B. Mills trophy race and won the Governor Harmon cup for finishing first in the racing cruising class.

BREWERS LOSE EDDIE HANYZEWSKI

MILWAUKEE—(INS)—The Milwaukee Brewers suffered a severe jolt today, the loss of Eddie Hanyzewski, a right-handed hurler. Hanyzewski was recalled by the Chicago Cubs a few hours after they recalled Paul Erickson, another right-handed hurling star of the Brewers.

Hunter Hangs Up Track Shoes

Notre Dame Record Holder Calls It Quits.

NOTRE DAME — (INS) — Oliver Hunter Hill, who holds all Notre Dame records for the two-mile run, is hanging up his track shoes for the duration, possibly for good.

The good-natured Irish distance runner, who was graduated from Notre Dame in the May 2nd commencement, is enrolled in the Navy V-7 program and declared before leaving Notre Dame for his home in Erie, Pa., that he has a more important job to do now and he may not resume running after the war.

"I'll be out of practice after the war," commented Ollie, "and I may be too old to start again. I may change my mind between now and then, but I doubt it very much. I would like another chance to take a crack at Greg Rice before I retire, but the job in front of me now is much more important. That boy (Rice) is the greatest runner in the country."

Hunter ran three superb races against the stocky Rice during the past indoor season, but the famous last lap spurt of Greg proved too muche for Ollie. During one of these races, in the New York A. C. meet in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 20, the Erie, Pa., runner finished the two-miles in 9:01.1 to set a new Notre Dame record—and he still finished some 15 yards behind Rice. The former record was held by Rice, who ran a 9:05 two-mile in the Chicago Relays in 1939. Rice is now a chief specialist in the maritime service.

Hunter, who last December was awarded the Byron V. Kanaley prize given each year to the varsity monogram winner who is mosts exemplary of sportsmanship and a student and leader of men was president of the Notre Dame monogram club in his senior year. He also consistently ran the mile under 4:20 and anchored the Notre Dame four-mile relay team which broke the American indoor record for that event at the 1943 Purdue Relays.

Ollie, who majored in foreign commerce in the Notre Dame College of Commerce, hopes to enter export shipping after the Axis are defeated.

Watson Regains Decathlon Title

ELIZABETH, N. J. —(INS)— Bill Watson, Detroit heavyweight policeman and former University of Michigan track and field ace, today had regained the national A. A. U. decathlon championship.

Watson annexed the crown without competing in the 1,500 meter run, finals of the ten-event program staged at Warinaco park stadium. He had been slated to compete in the third and last heat, but with the decathlon crown firmly within his grasp withdrew from the final run rather than aggravate a pulled tendon in his left leg.

Adding 2,263 points to the 3,731 he collected in five contests held on Saturday Watson finished with a total of 5,994, repeating his 1940 victory in this diversified and exacting competition.

Corp. Joshua Williamson of Camp Pickett, Va., was runner-up with a total of 5,808 points, 186 behind Watson. Donald G. Wanner of the University of Virginia was third with 5,614.

Top honors in the 1,500 meter run, staged in three heats with the placings determined on comparative time, went to William C. Strickler, unattached of New York.

NORTH RANDALL RACES START TOMORROW

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Dr. Dwight Pierce, of Springfield, Mass., today was named presiding judge for the 23-day, $140,000 Grand Circuit harness racing meet which gets underway at North Randall tomorrow.

Pierce, who is supervising steward of the New York State Harness Racing commission, will take the place of Lloyd Seeley, of Decatur, Ill., who was forced to pass up the job for business reasons.

The matron stake, with a purse of $5,000, will open the meet. It will be considered a preview of the Hambletonian, the Kentucky Derby of harness racing.

They were greeted on deck by a gentleman who introduced himself as Mr. Hannigan, the assistant yard superintendent. "Well, now Captain," he suggested, "I suppose you'd like to have a look at your quarters and then take a turn through the ship?"

"My quarters? Never mind my quarters! Let's see the ship!"

And so David Elder inspected the Merchant Mariner, from forepeak to stern glands, from stokehold to crow's nest. Never, never had he seen a ship so staunch, so well-fitted, or in such absolute conformity with every one of his long-cherished ideas of what a ship—his ship—should be. As he passed through the crew's quarters and saw the comfortable staterooms with two berths, wash basins with hot and cold running water and mirrored medicine cabinets above them — as he looked into the club-like lounge room, with its massive reading table and deep, leather-upholstered chairs and settees.

"Welp!" he said, "It's hard for an old shellback like me to believe that all this is true! Twenty years ago, we made our seaman live like pigs—in fact, their quarters were even worse than you can see on most foreign ships today. But this . . ." he waved his hand in an all-inclusive gesture, "—this! Well, I guess from now on, the world had better keep its eye on the American Merchant Marine!"

"Yair! And gee, Captain—just wait'll you see the terlets!"

"Oh! Why, hello there, Stanislawski! Glad to have you with me again! Any of the rest of the old crowd signed on?"

"Oh, yes, sir! There's little Smitty, and Jeff the pantryman, and Larson the carpenter and four or five more."

"Fine! A good ship deserves a good crew!" Captain Elder beamed.

The only time he appeared to be in the least troubled was when he spied the gun mounted on the poop. "Oh—a four incher, eh?" he said, lifting the canvas cover and examining the breech. "H'm! It's a late model—a new one on me!"

"Well, you won't have to worry about it, Captain!" Mr. Hannigan smiled. "This gun, and the .50 calibre anti-aircraft battery up there behind the bridge, will be in charge of a trained Navy gun crew."

"Oh? They will? Um!" Captain Elder nodded his head gloomily. "Um!" But then, suddenly, he stiffened and stood scowling fiercely. "All right!" he snorted, "All right! Navy or no Navy—the Merchant Mariner's a damned good ship anyway."

Tied up to a dock in Hoboken, the S. S. Merchant Mariner lay loading cargo, and a formidable cargo it was. Captain Elder and Mr. Rossi stood on the lower bridge and watched the straining derricks as they hoisted up the various bulky implements of war, swung them inboard and then lowered them into the holds.

From time to time Mr. Rossi, who was supervising operations with a vigilant eye, found occasion to criticize, short or admonish the stevedores on the decks below. He did so with considerable fervor.

"Tsk, tsk! Mr. Rossi! Such language!" Captain Elder reproved him. "Now, let's see—where are you planning to load this other stuff?"

"Well, after we get the trucks aboard, I'm putting a couple more of the medium tanks in Number Two hold, sir," said the mate, consulting his cargo chart. "Those others, those big brutes, I'll distribute between Three and Four."

"Yes; we don't want to have her too stiff. And how about those crated fighter planes?"

"They'll go right here in Number Five," Mr. Rossi jabbed his finger at the chart. "They take up pretty near 3,000 cubic feet apiece."

"And those big babies—those bombers—have you figured out how to make 'em fast on deck?"

"There are a couple of men from the Lockheed plant sent here specially to attend to it, sir."

"H'm!" Captain Elder nodded, musingly. " . . . Those bombers . . . they kind of make it look as though we were in for a pretty long trip, Mr. Rossi! If they were intended for England, or even for West Africa, they'd simply fly 'em across But . . ."

"But—what's your guess, Sir?"

"Russia! said Captain Elder. "Murmansk!"

"Yes, it does look that way," agreed Mr. Rossi. "If we . . ." Suddenly he broke off, clapped his whistle to him mouth and flew a series of shrill blasts. "YOU!" he bawled at the stevedore who was operating a winch at the hatch just below them, "Don't check 'er with a jerk like that! What the hell are you trying to do, you ham-handed son of a —— —? D'you want to strip the teeth clean off of her?"

Snorting fire and brimstone, he started for the ladder, but Captain Elder restrained him. "Oh, now, Joer-er, Mr. Rossi!" he chided, severely. "Oh, hey, now, see here, Rossi! — Really, you know, you ought to be ashamed of yourself, always giving way to your nasty temper! That's no way for a Merchant Marine officer to behave Why! I . . ."

From the winch below came the crunch and snarl of stripping gear-teeth. With a fearful oath, Captain Elder brushed Mr. Rossi aside. He leaped down the ladder, hurled himself upon the winchman and—SOCK!' he knocked the fellow cold.

"I'll teach you to go busting up things on a brand-new ship of mine!" he addressed the prostrate form. "I'll . . . I'll . . ."

Snorting irately, he went up to his cabin. He was still dabbing iodine on his skinned knuckles, winching somewhat and cursing to himself, when there was a knock at the door.

"Come in!"

NOW WOMEN ARE WORKING ON RAILROADS

'Doing a Swell Job, Too,' Says Car Foreman For Illinois Central.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — And now they're working on the railroads.

Into an exclusively masculine field have come eight women, a grandmother among them, to work at "he-man" jobs in the Chicago yards of the Illinois Central railroad. The huskies who used to grunt and groan at the heavy work in the yards have gone off to war.

How are the women doing?

"They're doing a swell job," said H. I. Brown, car foreman for the Illinois Central. "In many instances they accomplish more than the men. They don't loaf. They're interested. In the sub zero weather they all reported for work, and shoveled snow, when many men stayed at home."

The women, some of them heavyweights, others flyweights, act as car supply helpers. They load and unload freight car wheels, which weigh several hundred pounds each. They clean cabooses, and stock rolling stock supplies.

The job is long on heavy work and grease, and completely devoid of glamour.

The work, however, is not new to Mrs. Mary Pietraszek, who is 53 years, a widow, and boasts eight children and 18 grand-children.

"I worked in the Pullman yards during the last war," she said, hitching up her pants belt. "I did the same work then. I like this job."

Mrs. Harriett Warzynska, 35, said she took the job because she had nothing to do while her husband was at work and her two children were in school.

"When I leave here at night I stop and do the marketing," she said. Then I go home and cook dinner for my family. I'm back on the job at 8 every morning."

The "baby of the group is Mrs. Lorraine Harlan, 18, who tips the scales at 115 pounds. Her husband is in the submarine service. Mrs. Harlan, like most of the others, comes to work attired in blue jeans and a gray sweat shirt.

"This job is better than being a waitress or a soda jerker," she smiled. "I used to do that. And besides, I'm glad to do my share to keep 'em rolling."

DO YOU NEED HELP?

Help Wanted Results ... Are Not Frozen

Industry, business and the federal employment offices are relying strongly on the Help Wanted columns to secure capable workers. Many employers have hired capable workers through Want Ads after other methods failed. Married women and other capable people not now employed watch the Help Wanted columns for jobs suited to their ability.

IMPORTANT!

With so many jobs available, it is only natural that the person seeking a job will respond first to those advertisements that state all the facts. In your Help Wanted advertisement mention all the advantages of the position as well as the qualifications demanded, and then, keep your advertisement in The News-Journal Help Wanted columns every day until your vacancies are filled.

"What about me?" Dicky asked.

My father looked at him speculatively for an instant, then spoke with decision.

"Yes," he said; "I'll see that you have a room up there. Margaret can pretend to be busy in there and in the vacant rooms when she's not passing through the halls."

Into Dicky's eyes as he looked at me, there flashed a mischievous glint, and I knew he was recalling—and meant me to remember—his burlesqued threat of "keeping me on the run" with calls of "Maid!" But the only comment he made was a brief "Thank you, Dad. I appreciate that," and then my father went on:

"I have engaged a room on the 15th floor on the other side of the building for you at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, Margaret," he said. 'Have you told Richard what you are to do, and has he gotten in touch with Halloran?"

I found myself flushing in chagrin at my failure to deliver his message.

"I told him everything except your request about Halloran," I said. "I am so sorry, Father."

"Don't blame her, Dad!" Dicky struck in chivalrously. "It wasn't her fault. I was bedeviling her so about the maid disguise that I'm afraid I drove everything else out of her mind."

My father's lips twitched.

"There is no harm done," he said. "I simply wish you to go outside, so that the call won't go through the switchboard, get in touch with Halloran, and ask him to be at Room 603 the Van Sittart hotel at 8:10 tomorrow morning. Tell him he is to bring make-up and gray wigs, but do not give any details or any names to him."

"I understand, sir," Dicky said, "and I'll attend to it at once."

"Please come back here as soon as you've finished," my father added. "There are details to discuss about that possible—perhaps I should say probable — after midnight interview with Ruth Hayes."

"If Halloran is in, I'll be back in ten minutes." Dicky promised.

"If he isn't," my father said, "don't wait; you can get him later. I want to get everything settled about the visit we expect from the Hayes woman."

Swiss chard and dwarf Essex rape can be cut continually and new growth will come on. If both the chard and rape are protected with some straw when early frosts come, both will continue to yield green feed for the chickens until late in the fall.

The Scotch kale will give greens until late in December, as it is not injured by frost. During the winter the hens will enjoy cabbage, red beets and mangel wurtzels. One large head of cabbage per week for 25 hens is not too much. The amount of succulent green feed given to chickens should be limited, however, so as not to interfere with their normal consumption of mash and grain.

U.S. Army Scores Pilots' Claims By Rigid Rules

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The terms "destroyed," "probably destroyed," and "damaged" cropping up with mounting frequency in news dispatches from the fighting fronts, have a definite meaning to pilots of the army air forces, who know what a difficult job it is to convince their superiors of the destruction of an enemy plane in combat or even that it has been hit.

The "box score" of U. S. air effectiveness is even more amazing, according to an article in "Flying" magazine, upon scrutiny of the rigid rules to which pilots are subject in substantiating claims.

An enemy plane is scored as "destroyed" only if three requirements are met. They are:

1. That it has been seen descending completely enveloped in flames.

2. That it has been seen to disintegrate in the air, as when a complete wing or tail assembly is seen to be shot away from the fuselage.

3. If the plane is a single seater, that the enemy pilot has been seen to bail out.

LOAN COST REDUCED

ON ALL LOANS ABOVE $150

— EFFECTIVE AT ONCE —

This new loan rate offers worthwhile savings to those whose budgets have been upset by the June income tax installment. Now is the deal time to clear up all those scattered bills that have troubled you. With only one place to pay, you can organize your way out of debt on an orderly repayment schedule adjusted to fit your purse. Of course, we make small loans too. For instance, $20 for 30 days costs only 60c. But if you need as much as $200, $300, or even $450 or more, remember Interstate's new rate offers you a real reduction on your loan cost. "While you wait" service to those who phone ahead or present proper identification and evidence of employment.

JOHN STEBBINS HAS SHORTS - SARAH HAS SLACKS AND MUSH HAS SHORTS - SO WHAT?
WHAT DO YOU THINK THE BOY SAID TO ME TO-DAY?
I'M TOO OLD TO GUESS
FIRST - HE TOLD ME THAT WHILE HE'S ON VACATION - HE'LL SPEND EVERY MINUTE WITH ME - AND THEN—
THEN WHAT?
HE SAID HE'D CAUSE NO TROUBLE OR EXTRA WORK
I'M SURE HE WON'T - HE'S A STEBBINS
JOHN STEBBINS - YOU KNOW IT'LL BE ALMOST AS BAD AS HAVING YOU AROUND TWENTY-FOUR HOURS A DAY

STOCK LEADERS SCORE GAINS IN EARLY TRADING

Analysts Study Reports That Steel Scrap Situation Remains Unsolved.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Leading stocks generally maintained their upward leanings in today's early market transactions.

Ahead fractionally at a moderately active opening were Santa Fe, Chrysler, Mack Trucks, South Porto Rico Sugar, Texas Co., Great Northern, Pennsylvania, Boeing, Radio Corp., Glenn Martin, Chesapeake & Ohio and General Electric. Both U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were unchanged and American Telephone down slightly.

Anaylsts studied the magazine "Steel" survey which said the scrap problem was far from being solved and tht in one district steel makers were receiving a third less material than they were consuming with the result that reserves had been drawn upon appreciably.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Wheat sagged under a little hedging pressure at the opening today. Oats and rye started higher, but soon turned downward in sympathy with wheat.

Wheat began unchanged to ¼ lower, July $1.44½, Sept. $1.45⅛-1.45, and rye was unchanged to ⅝ higher, July 98¼.

U. S. SOLDIERS ASK FOR SONG WITH REAL ZIP

Want Something They Can Sing Like Dad Did In 1918.

(By International News Service)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC — America, write us a song of the girls we left behind, or of mom and dad, or the campus we shall not see again for a long, long time. Write us a matching song, one we can hum as we tramp the long miles down; or give us a ballad, a sentimental song we can harmonize over a bar or out in the moonlight when the air is free, except for the stars, and our thoughts go wandering home.

America, write us a song!

This is the plea we're sending today across the oceans back to Broadway. It's addressed to the ditty doctors of Tin Pan Alley, song exchange of the nation. It is marked "Urgent" and it is signed: "America's fighting forces."

There's very little difference between the fighting men of World War 1 and 2. The boys today are in much the same spot, fighting for the same things their fathers did 20 odd years ago. Yet there is a difference; their dads had songs—plenty of them.

There was "Madamoiselle from Armentiers" and "Tipperary" and "Over There" and "My Buddy" and "Good Morning Mr. Zip, Zip, Zip." And how about "Oh, How I Hate to Get Up In the Morning," "Pack Up Your Troubles In Your Old Kit Bag" and that wonderful girl, "K-K-K-Katie?"

Yes, they had something to sing in those days. But in this war they're still waiting for the melody that has not come. Not a single song has caught on with the American boy. We have been waiting with them listening to them sing in bars on boats and on tiny islands in these South Seas—and we know

The tunes you hear in the States. "Praise the Lord," "When the Lights Go On Again," "White Cliffs of Dover"—have not captured the fancy of our fighting men as group songs. Not one of them has been sung in our presence.

The most popular ditties in this area are old time popular songs like: "Down By the Old Mill Stream," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Someone's In the Kitchen With Dinah," and "Sweet Adeline." Occasionally, not often, we've heard the sweet, nostalgic strains of an alma mater song—of Cornell, Stanford or Texas, the 'Palisades,' New York university's beautiful hymn and the pep songs of Notre Dame.

But there has been no one song, written and adopted by our boys since the outbreak of this war.

"What's wrong?" We've asked that question many times with always the same answers: "There's just been nothing written which has caught on" or "we want a song but haven't heard it yet, when we do we'll let you know."

That's the consensus of the officers and enlisted men with whom we've discussed the phenomena.

THEATERS

Plays Davies.

Walter Huston, who was starred in "Yankee Doodle Dandy" along with James Cagney, plays what is perhaps the most dramatic role of his career in "Mission to Moscow," now at the Madison. Huston is seen as Joseph E. Davies, the former ambassador to Russia. "Mission to Moscow" tells the story of Davies' great mission to Russia. Ann Harding is seen as Mrs. Davies. Litvinov is depicted by Oscar Homolka. Other Madison attraction co-stars Bob Page and Frances Langford in "Cowboy In Manhattan."

Ladd In China.

Alan Ladd, co-star with Loretta Young of Paramount's war film, "China," now at the Ohio, started a new vogue among leading men when he rocketed to fame as a psychopathic killer in "This Gun for Hire." Ladd's guns to soul-satisfying job on a trio of Japs in "China." William Bendix is seen as Ladd's pal, and between them they start a two-man war on the sons of Nip.

Helpful Advice.

The late Tom Mix, famous cowboy star, first suggested to Roy Rogers, who was then a truck driver, that he become a cowboy actor. Mix's interest was the impetus that spurred Rogers' on to stardom. Rogers' most recent picture is "Song of Texas," which is now playing at the Ritz. Other Ritz attraction is "Casablanca," starring Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman and Paul Henreid.

TWO KILLED AS PLANE CRASHES NEAR LEXINGTON

the house, according to members of the family.

Their view shut off by a row of trees, none of the family or guests saw the crash but all heard it.

Those on the porch rushed out.

First to reach the scene was Lee Smith, father of the pilot. He was accompanied by Arlene Mitchelson, 16, of Bucyrus, a friend of the family.

The elder Smith pulled his son and Volz from the debris.

Volz apparently had been killed instantly. Smith was still conscious. Both had been held to the plane by their fastened safety belts.

Mrs. Bruce Smith, who lives at 52 East Second street, Mansfield, and was a guest at the Smith home, telephoned Dr. Earl C. Mast, told him of the accident and asked him to call an ambulance.

While they were waiting the arrival of the physician and ambulance, the elder Smith and other members of the family applied first aid to Smith's injuries.

Volz's body was taken to the Snyder funeral home in Lexington, and Smith was brought to Mansfield General hospital, where his injuries were reported to have consisted of a fracture of the right leg, and deep lacerations about the face and hands. He suffered considerably from shock.

Circumstances surrounding the accident were peculiarly tragic.

Smith, who had been a flier for about two years, had flown his own plane to Mansfield with his son, Richard, 8. He is employed in Columbus as a tool and die maker at the Curtis Wright company.

He landed his ship at Mansfield airport and joined his family at their home.

Later, after a family dinner, keeping a promise he had made to his brother-in-law Volz, he and Mr. and Mrs. Volz and the latter's eldest son, drove to the Mansfield air field. They took off at about 4 p. m. while Mrs. Volz waited at the port.

Within a half hour, they were flying over Smith's home. According to members of the family, Smith circled twice, the second time coming over at a fairly low altitude.

After he had roared over the house-top, there was the sound of a crash, as though, in the words of those sitting on the porch, "somebody had dropped something heavy in the field."

Smith's father and mother, Miss Mitchelson, Mr. and Mrs. Don Tupps, of Mansfield, and their children, rushed out to see what had happened.

They found the plane a tangled mass of wreckage. It had cut a swath of less than 200 yards in the wheat field, rolled over once and plowed its way over the field.

The plane apparently hit the field with the right wing, turned over and landed with its motor buried in the ground. The left wing stood vertically in the air.

Smith, according to those who reached him first, kept murmering, "it hurts, it hurts," but Volz, apparently was already dead.

As news of the tragedy spread, a constantly growing line of automobiles streamed toward the accident scene.

Members of the Mansfield unit of the Civil Air Patrol immediately began a patrol of the area, awaiting the arrival of Earl Smith of Detroit, a member of the civil aeronautics board, and Ray Poole and William Wagner, CAA inspectors from Cleveland.

Volz is survived by his wife; three children, Donald, 7, Alton Lee, 5, and Edward, 3, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Volz, of near Lexington; two brothers, Robert, Wooster, and Richard, at home, and a grandmother, Mrs. Caroline Volz, Mansfield.

Smith is survived by his son, Richard, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smith, six brothers, Sgt. Richard Smith, with the army at Waco, Texas, Cpl. Howard Smith, Diane Field, Lakeland, Fla., Pvt. Russell Smith, Camp Hood, Tex., Ralph and Lee Smith both of Mansfield, and Floyd at home; and five sisters, Mrs. Jessie Gerhart and Mrs. Margaret Peoples, both of Galion, Mrs. Velma LaBarre, Mansfield, Mrs. Henry Volz, wife of one of the victims, and Dorothy Smith, at home.

The bodies are at the Snyder funeral home in Lexington. Funeral arrangements were incomplete pending word from Smith's three brothers in the army.

ILLNESS FATAL

Mrs. Grace Thompson, 63, Dies At Home Today.

Mrs. Grace Sickinger Thompson, 63, of 286 Rae avenue, died at the Mansfield Sanitarium hospital early today following a brief illness.

She was born in Richland county near Mansfield on Oct. 30, 1879, and has been a resident of this community during her entire life.

Surviving is a son, Donald F. Thompson, serving with the United States Coast Artillery at San Juan, Porto Rico.

The body was removed to the Finetrock funeral home pending funeral arrangements.

JAIL CD WARDEN AS GERMAN SPY

by a jail sentence of 30 years, or death.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, revealed that Lehmitz was seized in New York City in what may turn out to be one of the most sensational spy cases of the war.

Hoover declared that Lehmitz had "written numerous letters to the German intelligence in Europe containing detailed information in secret writing as to shipping conditions in the New York harbor, as well as troop and convoy movements."

Lehmitz, a one-time employe of the German consulate in New York, who later became an American citizen, began his alleged spy activities in January, 1942, shortly after Germany declared war on the United States, the FBI said.

"In writing these letters," Hoover declared, "Lehmitz had used numerous fictitious names and addresses in the hope that his identity could not be established. However in spite of these names and addresses it was known that these letters were all written by the same individual."

Hoover did not reveal how Lehmitz attempted to smuggle the letters to the German intelligence in Europe. The allegation that he used secret writing indicated that he had been possibly schooled by the German high command.

Lehmitz apparently was well financed according to Hoover. "Investigation has shown that Lehmitz has received a large sum of money through international banking channels," the FBI director stated. Hoover did not disclose when the exchange of money took place nor who sent it to Lehmitz.

The alleged German spy made every effort to convey the impression, according to Hoover, that he was "an honest and upright American citizen and in order to carry out this impression he even became an air-raid warden on Staten Island."

Investigation has shown that he attempted to sell to the United States government an invention for a huge sum of money, Hoover continued, in an attempt to indicate "that he desired to do all he could to assist the war effort of the United States."

Hoover would not reveal what kind of an invention that Lehmitz attempted to sell to the United States.

The FBI said that Lehmitz was born in Hamburg, Germany, and now lives at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, New York. He came to the United States in 1908 and for a time was employed at the German consulate in New York City until that office was closed at the outbreak of the first World war. He was naturalized a citizen in Richmond county, New York, on Oct. 4, 1924. He is known to have made at least three trips to Germany and it apparently was during these journeys that he made his contacts with the German intelligence. Lehmitz will be arraigned before a U. S. commissioner in Brooklyn during the day.

Gimber said cause of the illness has not yet been determined. He said it might have been food or the heat although the likelihood of its being traced to the meal was small since only a portion of the youngsters suffered the attack.

Candy which many of the sick youngsters bought at the commissary also came in for its share of the suspicion today. Gimbel said that while only a few of the group were ill the malady spread partly through "sympathy."

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

LONDON—(By Wireless)—Great Britain is looking at this war in terms of a "Part One" to be followed by a quite different "Part Two." Much more than is the case in America, the British expect a considerable change of pace after Germany is defeated.

That doesn't mean England is not interested in defeating Japan. But it does mean that England, which is now the advance base in the fight against Germany, sees herself dropping out of the combat zone and fighting a war remote from her home shores, as we are doing now.

Clapper

Accordingly people in the government expect many changes at the end of what they call Part One, which is concerned principally with the defeat of Germany. For instance, the huge air-raid precaution services, the home guard, the anti-aircraft defenses, and all other activities connected with the bombing of England and the danger of invasion would have no further purpose and would be rapidly dismantled. A partial demobilization of troops is expected, and a partial conversion of war industry back to peacetime work.

The period after the defeat of Germany, while Part Two of the war is going on against Japan, is regarded here as a fortunate opportunity to cushion the shock of demobilization by taking it more gradually than after the last war.

When Churchill spoke of this in his March broadcast he was promptly criticized for neglecting the Pacific war. There has long been a fear by some in America that Britain would lose interest in the war after Germany was defeated. But when high government officials are asked about this they stoutly deny it, saying Britain has too many interests in the Far East to take any such position.

It is almost certain that Britain will have a general election as soon as Germany is defeated. There has been none since 1935. Persons under 28 never had an opportunity to vote in a general election. There are men sitting in commons now who are superannuated, and some who got in by the narrowest of margins, such as one who was elected by an edge of only some 60 votes. The managers of the Conservative party want to put young war veterans in parliament, so there is strong pressure for holding an election without waiting for the defeat of Japan.

In any such campaign there would be a tendency on the part of the government to curry favor by harping on the withdrawal of wartime restrictions. I think we in America will have to be prepared for a general letting down in England, although I don't think it will mean any real letdown in the fight against Japan.

The war against Japan is expected to be carried on through three kinds of operations—naval, air and ground. The preliminary will have to be the retaking of Burma and of airdrome sites in China, in both of which Chinese troops ought to be expected to carry the major part of the load, with the British and Americans handling their supplies. Bombing must utilize long-range, heavy-load-carrying RAF Halifaxes, Lancasters and Stirlings as well as our daylight bombers. Certainly we are going to need the slugging leadership technique of Chief Air Marshal Harris. That means the RAF, and British heavy-bomber production must continue full blast.

Naval co-operation should mean continued building by both America and Britain as long as Japan is undefeated. Also continued cargo-ship construction. For the Japanese war is going to take heavy tonnage.

In the light of those considerations the British feel they can safely readjust their war life to a different tempo when Part Two begins, without relaxing on their pledge to throw their full weight against Japan.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—You have been informed of the deferment of Joseph Curran, the boss of the Communist front maritime union and of Lewis Merrill, as he calls himself, president of the CIO union of office workers, also of the Communist front, on the ground that these two ferocious patriots are now indispensable in their role of unioneer, although both exerted themselves to obstruct this nation's preparations for war up to the hour of Hitler's attack on Russia.

Pegler

Another who should be listed with them by reason of his politics, past performances and present indispensability is Lewis H. Michener, the director of the Pacific coast region of the Aircraft Workers' division of the United Auto Workers, the organization which struck the Allis-Chalmers plant in Wisconsin and tied up $45,000,000 worth of war production for more than two months in 1941 and planted a mob of rioters around the North American aviation plant in Los Angeles in the same year for the purpose of crippling this country in the air in the impending war with the Axis and the Japs.

Michener was the active director of the North American sabotage which may reasonably be a job of treason inasmuch as President Roosevelt himself, denounced it as the operation of a Communist conspiracy. The president, you may remember, had to call on a regiment of infantry of the regular army to shove the saboteurs away so that loyal American citizens could go to their tasks without risk of death or injury at the hands of the union's pro-Axis guerrillas.

The case was in no sense a strike but was an attempt by the Communists to prevent this nation from arming itself for war and from sending effective help to Britain, which then stood alone against the Nazis and the Fascists and was catching hell from the air day and night while Russia helped Germany.

It was such a raw and violent outrage against the government and the security of the United States that Michener's own union had to go through the motions of firing him from his official position in the auto workers, replacing him with Jack Montgomery until the heat cooled out. This technical demotion, done for the sake of the record and to kid the loyal American saps of the country, lasted about a year and Michener then was reinstated on the national governing body of the auto workers and as director of the Pacific coast region of the aircraft workers.

Michener is only 34 years old, well within the draft age and is married, but his wife is active in CIO affairs in California and probably could support herself and they have no children.

On May 21, Michener was to have been inducted into the army, but while loyal Americans including, for example, a Denver taxi driver with a wholly dependent wife and child, with whom I talked about that time, were going off to the camps, something saved Michener. His file was referred to the California state headquarters of the selective service under orders from Washington, and it appears that his case was considered to be so important that it must be passed upon by the highest authorities of the draft in the national capital.

The Communists of the CIO around Los Angeles presented the same arguments that had been offered in New York in justification of the deferment of Curran and Merrill, as he calls himself. The attack by Hitler on Russia had changed this world conflict from a capitalist-imperialist aggression against peace-loving Hitlerized Germany into a people's war, and Michener was doing invaluable work in the great cause as an official of a patriotic union of American workers.

When I left the west, the indispensable patriot's case was still under consideration, apparently in Washington, and my latest information, dated May 26, had him still safe in his union job by which time the Denver taxi driver was well on his way to the war, perhaps to that second front which Curran, Merrill, as he calls himself, and Michener have been demanding with such ferocity.

ON BROADWAY-- By Dorothy Kilgallen

Manhattan Nights.

OF COURSE the best subject for the kind of true life Broadway story that fits into the "ironie" file is love. Love is always good for a tale with a "twist," because people in love do odd things and their befuddled behavior is matched only by the behavior of people who have been in love and have fallen out. Wherever there's l'amour, there's a story with a switch—like this one.

Kilgallen

Not too many years ago an ambitious young floor show producer named Wally Wanger got his first Broadway chance when he was hired to produce the revues at 52nd street's most famous nitery, Leon and Eddie's. Young and unknown though he was, Wally made an immediate impression on the local late scene, and soon some of the loveliest looking lasses in New York were seeking jobs in his chorus line.

* * *

To one chorus call on a fateful afternoon came a soft-eyed brunet with pale olive skin and a naive manner. There may have been more beautiful girls among the applicants that day—but not to Wally's suddenly smitten eyes. The prospective chorine said her name was Ronnie Gilbert, and admitted her experience wasn't extensive in the glamour mills. But just something about her, the way she looked and the way she talked, hit Wally. He fell in love with a dull, resounding thud.

P. S. She got the job.

Between shows each night, the chorine and the producer would sit at the table in the cafe furthest away from the band and the noise. And after a few months, Ronnie Gilbert became Mrs. Wally Wanger, and deserted the chorus to become her producer-husband's dance director. Success shone on them, and soon Wally had charge of the floor shows in many nightclubs in and out of Manhattan.

Suddenly, something happened. Ronnie was bitten by the career bug. She went back to the chorus, and soon after that she walked out on Wally.

When the Broadway books are brought to balance on some future day, I don't suppose anyone will be found to have carried a brighter, more burning torch than did Wally Wanger. With unhappy whimsy, he used to refer to himself as "The Lone Wanger." With a haunted look on his face, he started making the rounds all by himself every night. No spot seemed to lure him as consistently as Leon and Eddie's, which seemed to have a nostalgic hold on him; the regulars ran into him there every night. And he used to stop people as they went by his table and asked if they remembered this or that or the other things about those bygone days when his romance was on the rise, not on the rocks.

But for the last few weeks, Wanger hasn't been in Leon and Eddie's. Ordinarily the boys would wonder about it, but they don't wonder about it now. They know why he doesn't get around any more to sit alone with his memories of a little chorus girl with brown eyes.

Because Ronnie Gilbert has just made her debut as a singer in the floor show at Leon and Eddie's—and she's planning to start divorce proceedings against Wally while she works at the place where they first met!

RECESS-BOUND CONGRESS ACTS TO SPEED BILLS

Appropriations Hitting Total of $115,000,000,000 To Be Rushed This Week.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A recess-minded congress opened full throttle today in an effort to complete legislative action this week on appropriation bills totaling $115,000,000,000.

The way was cleared for quick senate passage of the war department's $71,500,000,000 "decisive budget," which provides for nearly 100,000 new planes, and for a finish fight over house demands for liquidation of the National Youth Administration (NYA).

Barring unexpected complications, congressional leaders hope to start a vacation soon lasting until about the middle of September, after taking the unusual precaution of empowering minority leaders, as well as those of the majority, to call members back into session in event of an emergency.

Senator Truman (D.-Mo.) sought support for a $47,000,000 amendment to the $1,100,000,000 labor-security bill to finance continuation of NYA's youth training and student and program under the war manpower commission.

Truman, chairman of the senate's war investigating committee, contended NYA's work was "absolutely essential" in training young men and women for manual tasks in war plants and shipyards.

On the other hand, Chairman Byrd (D.-Va.) of the joint committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures, voiced vigorous support of the house proposal to allow NYA $3,000,000 with which to liquidate by next Jan. 1.

Meanwhile, the senate appropriations committee sought to complete hearings today on a $2,800,000,000 war agency bill from which the house lopped $35,000,000 of price administration funds. The house wrote in a ban against subsidies and deducted $5,500,000 from office of war information (OWI) funds with a view to scrapping its domestic operations.

Final action was sought today on a compromise report on a $226,105,758 state, commerce and justice department appropriations measure.

Still in conference were the $875,000,000 farm bill and a $127,889,141 interior department money bill.

URGES CENTRAL FOOD CONTROL

Hoover Supports Fulmer Bill To Put Davis as Head of All Branches.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Former President Herbert Hoover today urged congress to pass the Fulmer bill which would centralize food control — including rationing — in the hands of Chester C. Davis, war food administrator.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia in his weekly radio broadcast also assailed the continuing administration food muddle in Washington as a threat to the war effort both here and abroad.

Hoover pointed out that only a single responsible food administrator can avert inflation in food prices. He added that only a unified control over all phases of the supply and distribution of food will put an end to waste, profiteering and local famines.

The former president said that a food "czar" or an "Angel Gabriel" has not been asked for but that the country wants and needs a food "manager" acting under the president within laws prescribed by congress.

Despite the fact that there are no serious food shortages, Mayor LaGuardia said that the food situation is probably worse now than it ever was before.

BODY OF LOST AVIATOR FOUND

Flier, Former College Grid Star, Had Been Missing 49 Days.

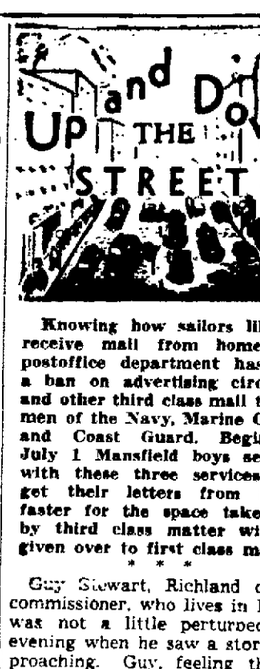
DETROIT —(INS)— The body of Second Lieutenant Wilmeth W. Sidat-Singh, former athlete at Syracuse university, had been found today after he had been missing for 49 days.

A former football and basketball star, Sidat-Singh parachuted from his single seated pursuit ship at noon on May 9, his plane crashing into Lake Huron. No trace of the body was found until 3 p. m. Sunday when it was sighted by a patrol.

Lieut. Sidat-Singh was a member of the 332nd fighting group, an all-Negro unit. He was graduated from the Tuskegee, Ala., flying school on March 25, 1943.

COLUMBUS FLIER KILLED

SAN RAFAEL, Cal.—(INS)—Second Lieut. Andrew Melek, of Columbus, O., was killed when his single seater fighter plane crashed near Petaluma, Cal., while on a routine flight from Hamilton field, army authorities announced today.



Knowing how sailors like to receive mail from home the postoffice department has put a ban on advertising circulars and other third class mail to the men of the Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard. Beginning July 1 Mansfield boys serving with these three services will get their letters from home faster for the space taken up by third class matter will be given over to first class mail.

Guy Stewart, Richland county commissioner, who lives in Lucas, was not a little perturbed last evening when he saw a storm approaching. Guy, feeling the intense heat was ruining his lawn, had the sprinkler in full force when clouds formed over head. In his haste to turn off the artificial shower before rain overtook him, something went wrong, and he was forced to let his lawn have water from the ground as well as the sky.

A group of Mansfield youngsters are still chuckling over an event that happened during the last few days of school at one of the city's elementary buildings. The pupils were repeating the pledge of allegiance to the flag with their hands over their hearts. Looking at the group the teacher noticed one very attractive little girl with her hand over her right side. "Your heart isn't on that side," laughed the teacher. "Oh, yes, it is," replied the child. The teacher insisted; so did the little girl. A visit to the school nurse proved the youngster was right!

SEEK TO BOOST STEEL OUTPUT

War Production Board Wants 1,000,000 Tons For Third and Fourth Quarters.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Cooperation of more than 800 manufacturers in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and western Pennsylvania is being sought by the regional War Production Board in an effort to improve third and fourth quarter steel production, J. B. French, WPB's deputy regional director, said today.

The "share the steel campaign," French said, is part of a nation-wide drive embracing more than 2,000 manufacturer-consumers of steel, and is designed to obtain 1,000,000 tons of new steel for each of the third and fourth quarters in 1943.

WPB steel division officials will visit steel consuming centers in the four-state region to "see if steel supplies on hand will permit the elimination or deferment of third and fourth quarter orders on producer's books without interfering with authorized schedules."

"This is a completely cooperative movement," he added, "and we are sure industry will cooperate. Allotment requests for the third and fourth quarters from claimant agencies total about 23,000,000 tons of carbon and alloy steel, against an estimated supply of 16,250,000 tons.

"Therefore, effort is being made to see that every possible ton of steel is produced during the third and fourth quarters. In addition, an organized campaign is being conducted to obtain cooperation of the larger steel consumers in reducing their third and fourth quarter orders in the books of producers."

HIT BY FIRE

Damage $40,000 In Oil Blaze At Tekamah, Nebraska.

TEKAMAH, Neb. —(INS)— Four of seven tanks of the Standard Oil company bulk station at Tekamah exploded today as fire destroyed the building.

Flames shot 300 feet into the air. Blazing gasoline from the tanks spread across two sidetracks of the Missouri Pacific railroad. The main line escaped serious damage. Total damage was estimated at $40,000.

DEWEY SEEN AS FIRST AMONG 4 IN G. O. P. FIELD

Aides Say He Won't Go After Nomination, Say Nothing About 'Draft' Move.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Despite disclaimers from his Albany office, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York is being counted today as among the foremost possibilities for the 1944 Republican presidential nomination.

Dewey's aides say he will not seek the nomination. But they have not said anything about what would happen if the convention were deadlocked and someone began to chant "draft Dewey." So Republican politicians generally are thinking of 1944 in terms of only three or four men: Dewey, Wendell L. Willkie, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The MacArthur boom does not amount to much but some of the capital's smartest political strategists, including Sen. Arthur H. Vandenburg, R., Mich., believe the Republicans could win with him.

Among the three civilians, Bricker is in the least advantageous position although there would be ample time in the next 12 months for a campaign build-up that would put him substantially abreast of the two New Yorkers.

The most spectacular figure is Willkie. A catch phrase sometimes heard here around the National Press club is that "no one wants Willkie but the people." That is a reference to the fact that he polled an astonishing 22,000,000 votes in 1940 against President Roosevelt, and that organization Republicans bitterly oppose him.

Willkie does not have many friends in congress. Mid-way in the pay-as-you-go tax dispute when it seemed reasonable that Willkie might speak out on the issue in his role as a former Republican presidential nominee, he did write letters to several members of the house. Willkie was for a pay-as-you-go bill. But the recipients of his letter did not make it public, leaving observers to speculate whether they considered his endorsement more of a hindrance than a help.

Many strategists believe Willkie has weakened his own position by failing to take the leadership of attack on Mr. Roosevelt's domestic policies. It is fairly certain that he will not be nominated next year unless he does shortly speak out, and frequently, in adverse criticism of the way things are going on the home front.

Unlike Willkie, Dewey would be satisfactory to most organization Republicans and, furthermore, he has a considerable national following in his own right. Washington did not miss the significance of reports from last week's governors' conference at Columbus, O., that Dewey was the only governor at whom the office workers, stenographers and such wanted to look. Some of the girls explained that the smiling young man from New York had "political sex appeal." That is just what the Republicans have been looking for ever since Mr. Roosevelt gave them the first terrible licking in 1932.

TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Gerald S. Bean, 59, Dies After Long Illness.

Mrs. Gerald S. Bean, 59, died Sunday at her home, 242 Ruth avenue, following a lingering illness.

Mrs. Bean was born Feb. 18, 1884, in Mansfield and spent the greater part of her life here. She was a member of First Methodist church, Ruth chapter No. 17, Eastern Star and a charter member of the Navy Mothers club.

Surviving besides her husband are one son, Gerald A. Bean, petty officer second class, in the United States navy; two daughters, Mrs. R. S. Henderson, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Miss Miriam Bean, at home, and one granddaughter.

The body is at the Wappner funeral home where services will be conducted Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. by Rev. Edward G. Corwin, pastor of First Methodist church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

In Cigaret Benefit Show

Diana Hale, Mansfield's child actress known to her friends here as Diana Shultz, will make a personal appearance at the Ohio theater Wednesday evening as one of the guest artists on the midnight cigaret benefit show, a part of the drive being sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary and The News-Journal. Author-farmer Louis Bromfield will also appear on the program in addition to local dance talent and the Greystone orchestra. Tickets at 50 cents each will not only admit the purchaser to the 11:30 show but will buy 200 cigarets for the boys overseas bringing the local drive nearer its goal of 1,000,000 smokes for the Yanks. By special arrangement with the tobacco companies cigarets for the fighting men are purchased at 5 cents a pack. The Mansfield goal has been set at $2,500. Tickets for the benefit show are on sales at Fox Jewelry store, U-Save Market, Tawse's Pharmacy, City News, Hunt's News Depot and American Legion home.

Story Of Heroic Citizens' Defense Of Leningrad Told

itself appears to divert the average citizen of Leningrad from his designated task.

When the day's work is over and the brilliant sunshine fades into the pale northern night, you can see these same citizens promenade under the once golden spires, domes and cupolas of the battered historic edifices, fishing in the blood-staned waters of the Neva, or flirting on the silvery quays.

Uniformed or civilian women with permanent waves and manicured nails, but no cosmetics, sailors from the Baltic fleet, naval officers and airmen—these throng the theaters each night.

The women wear bright and gay colors. There are no black dresses or armbands to indicate mourning, though every living person in the city is said to have lost someone near and dear since the war reached Leningrad.

During those critical August days of 1941 two appeals were addressed to the workers of Leningrad. The Germans dropped leaflets asking them what they were fighting for and asking them to lay down their arms. The other was signed by Marshal Klementi E. Voroshilov, Andrei Zhadnov, Community party district chief, and Mayor Popkov.

"We will rise like one man to defend our city, our homes, our families, honor and freedom," it said. In response the people's army did rush out—"like one man"—and robbed Adolf Hitler of a victory that seemed within his grasp.

Today as a group of representative citizens of Leningrad reminisced over those August days in my room in the Hotel Astoria, one of them pointed toward a banquet hall nearby and said:

"That is where the Germans planned to hold their victory dinner. I saw printed tickets issued by the German commanders."

The Victory dinner never was held because the workers' army closed a gap at the southern approaches to Leningrad, the Baltic fleet based at nearby Kronstadt threw a curtain of fire before the attackers, and the ranks of civilian defenders kept swelling until every person including children was under arms.

The school children proved particularly adept at hunting down parachutists and exposing spies and Nazi agents. Writers, artists, museum curators, bearded old academicians, even priests learned to toss hand grenades and operate machine guns.

But the worst was yet to come —the long siege which appears to have been one of the most excruciating ordeals any city ever endured.

The enormous civilian toll cannot be told. It may number anywhere between five and six figures. They perished from fire, bombing, shelling, hunger, cold—all the human foes except pestilence.

base, but an American raid early this month, coupled with a British assault last Wednesday night, may have flushed the warships from the port.

A daily Mail dispatch from the "Italian frontier" said that intensified Allied bombing raids on Sicily had created an acute water shortage there and may force the government to put the island's 4,000,000 inhabitants on a daily water ration.

Anglo-American bombs also have dislocated Sicily's public services entirely, the Daily Mail said. The entire male population was represented as feverishly mining roads and fortifying beaches with the whole trend of reports indicating that the "zero hour for invasion is about to strike."

Even greater tension, in this case bordering on panic, prevails in Bulgaria because of the belief that the Allies will invade the Balkans, a Daily Telegraph dispatch from Istanbul said. There have been runs on Bulgarian banks, postal and telegraph services have been placed under military control and business generally is at a standstill the dispatch said.

Radio London said Greek patriot forces have loosed landslides that blocked Axis-operated railroads in the Tempe valley of Thessaly, including that between Athens and Salonika, the only line linking southern Greece with the rest of Europe. Several railroad bridges also were reported to have been blown up.

Richard McMillan, United Press war correspondent, writing from Cairo, said that Adolf Hitler apparently has decided against another offensive in Russia in favor of assisting Italy and the other Axis countries against an Allied invasion in the Mediterranean.

Jap Submarine Reported Sunk

ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE — (UP) — The probable destruction of a Japanese submarine and an attack on a second were disclosed today by South Pacific headquarters along with six new blows by U. S. planes against Japanese Solomons bases.

A spokesman said a Hudson bomber on a search mission last Friday attacked a sub on the surface 200 miles southwest of the Fiji islands with depth charges. The enemy underseas boat disappeared and an oil slick welled up. Another submarine was bombed by planes in the Coral sea yesterday but results were not ascertained.

More slamming assaults against the Japanese Solomons bases were revealed. On Saturday, a sizeable force of Dauntless dive bombers and Avenger torpedo planes, covered by Wildcats, showered 15 tons of bombs on the enemy's base at Munda, north of Guadalcanal.

Meanwhile, police were awaiting the arrival tomorrow or Wednesday of the British vice-consul from Cleveland to take custody of Pvt. Roger Gosselin, 22, and Pvt. R. J. Bachand, 24, who were picked up last week on suspicion of being deserters.

The pair admitted they were absent without leave from the Royal Canadian Air force and that they had been in and out of Mansfield during the past five weeks using passes which they had stolen from an army station in Toronto.

Many Mansfielders had befriended the Canadians buying them meals and drinks. Several girls, police said, had given the AWOL fliers jewelry and other personal trinkets as remembrances.

Rep. Clare Luce Calls For New Attitude By Republicans.

APPLETON, Wis.—(U.P.)—Clare Luce, R., Conn., believes the Republican party must stop defending itself against isolationism by defending a "strong, realistic, common-sense American foreign policy."

Mrs. Luce, keynote speaker at the Wisconsin state Republican convention last night said such a foreign policy would become the foundation for a world peace that all nations would embrace "because they understand it."

The Republican party, failing to advance a strong foreign policy, will imperil its existence, Miss Luce said.

Majority of Miners Head Back To Work

PITTSBURGH— (AP)—Heartened by a lusty back-to-work swing over the week end, the greater part of the coal fields looked today for many more men to be back in the mines and a revived production effort to supply the fuels necessary for steel and other war-essential industries.

The "go to work" call sounded through many mining villages Sunday in the great Appalachian region, base of the industry, and scores of local units of the United Mine Workers (UMW) voted to resume their jobs in the soft coal mines.

Full-scale operations were predicted by UMW leaders and others in most of the states, including the vast bituminous coal area of West Virginia with its 130,000 miners.

Only in parts of Pennsylvania did the movement appear to encounter strong opposition and even there thousands of miners aligned themselves with those resuming coal diggings.

The two areas in which the movement lagged, judging from the results of Sunday's miner rallies, were the central Pennsylvania soft coal and the Eastern Pennsylvania Anthracite field.

Three Ohio Mines Fail To Resume

BELLAIRE—(AP)—Employes of at least three of the state's major mines failed to join the return-to-work movement that sent a majority of Ohio's 21,000 bituminous coal diggers back into the pits today.

Adolph Pacilico, vice president of the United Mine Workers union district 6, said the following shafts, employing a total of about 2,000, were idle today: the Hanna Coal company's nearby Dunglen and Willow Grove shafts and the Muskingum Coal company's Jones mine near Zanesville.

Pacifico said employes of the three shafts voted last night not to go back as directed by the UMW policity committee last week.

The district vice president left for Zanesville to confer with UMW diggers there in an attempt to get them to return.

Strike Threat In Cincinnati Hotels Averted.

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—Danger of a strike in Cincinnati's six major hotels passed today, Dan Meyers, president of the Cincinnati Hotel association, reported.

Meyers announced that the culinary trades branch of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes International Alliance (AFL) agreed to accept a five cent hourly wage increase granted by the War Labor Board. Similar action was taken by the maintenance employes.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JUNE 28, 1943.

It now seems to be an invasion of Europe that is "just around the corner"—and Hitler is wondering which corner.

Latest label for the "use tax" stamp, for which motorists must pay $5 by July 1, is "the pay-as-you-don't-go plan"—and it is also the only tax plan that has no enforcement provision.

According to a Tokyo broadcast, "American zootsuiters are strong, courageous young men banded together in a nationwide army to express by physical force their disapproval of the war"—and Japan's welcome to 'em if she thinks they're that good.

No Reflection On Loyal Workers

PEOPLE who have no intention of violating laws are unlikely to object to legislation intended to prevent criminal misconduct by persons who require some form of restraint.

Laws which provide penalties for various offenses are not regarded as a reflection on well-behaved members of society; nor should the newly-enacted Connally-Smith anti-strike law be considered antagonistic to organized labor.

In a message to President Roosevelt Saturday William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, pledged that officers and members of the A. F. of L. "will do everything in their power to make application of the new anti-strike act unnecessary and to further successful prosecution of the war."

Philip Murray, president of the CIO, gave similar assurance in a letter to the president and said that the CIO executive board, at a meeting called for July 7, will give "mature and orderly consideration to the many perplexing problems which, as you doubtless know, labor will be confronted with as a result of the action of congress."

There is every reason to believe that Mr. Green and Mr. Murray have thus expressed the sincere intent of a vast majority of America's workers, regardless of organization affiliation, and that these can be depended upon for continued earnest effort to win the war by putting their country ahead of self interest.

But war work has been retarded by sporadic strikes from time to time and recent work stoppages by coal miners have created a serious situation, the effects of which cannot yet be estimated.

Millions will hope that Mr. Green and Mr. Murray, and other responsible labor leaders, will succeed in making application of the new anti-strike law unnecessary, as voluntary conformity to law is always preferable to conduct that necessitates enforcement.

Silence Greets Bricker's 'Views'

MUCH as Ohio might appreciate the honor of providing another presidential nominee, the slight possibility of doing so is rapidly becoming more remote as other parts of the country are given opportunity to make their own estimates of John W. Bricker, present governor, and early entrant into the race for the 1944 Republican nomination.

The impression thus far made by Governor Bricker, during east and west speech-making trips, has not been such as to encourage belief that his candidacy could be made to extend further than "favorite son" status—and it may be doubted if this could be accomplished without considerable political maneuvering.

Governor Bricker's isolationist attitude during the critical pre-war period is not now greatly changed, it would appear, as he goes no further in a belated statement of views than to mildly favor "some form of post-war international organization to maintain world peace."

A Washington correspondent says that this declaration was given wide publicity in the national capital "but was received in political circles with what might be described as deafening silence."

Only in his ability to formulate and put through a budget which is an all-time high in state expenditure of public funds, has Governor Bricker established a record that can be considered out of the ordinary—and it may be doubted if this emulation of federal administrative extravagance will be sufficient to bring him strongly into the national limelight as a presidential contender.

Prison for 'Numbers' Racketeers

A NEW LAW, passed by the legislature and signed by the governor, appears specifically intended to wipe out the "numbers" gambling racket in Ohio.

Under this law promoters of the "numbers" game are subject to a fine of from $500 to $1,000 and a penitentiary sentence of from one to seven years, while sellers, solicitors and "pickup men" also are liable to heavy fine and imprisonment.

Although this law will not become effective for ninety days there is already plenty of "law" to put a quick stop to the "numbers" racket in any city where the police department wishes to do so—with sufficiently severe penalties to discourage operation of the racket during the three months before the new law goes into effect.

The "numbers" racket cannot be successfully operated as an "under cover" activity. Solicitation of patronage brings it to the attention of thousands of people—which robs it of any element of secrecy. So it is merely a matter of whether authorities decide to enforce or to ignore the law against a vicious form of gambling which links closely with the underworld.

Ocean Water Made Drinkable

OUT SAILING in the ocean, and feel thirsty? You have forgotten to bring drinking water, but that needn't matter. Just dip a bucket in the ocean and drink to your heart's content.

That is the prospect now made possible by a new device accepted by the navy. Invented at the naval medical research institute at Bethesda, Md., the process consists of applying the contents of a small package of chemicals. With this and three plastic bags, more than a quart of fresh water can be made. The chemicals serve to remove the common salt and magnesium chloride which make sea water unfit to drink.

With submarines and torpedoes making the seas unsafe, many people will sleep better because of knowing that this new process is available to their sons.

New York's wholesale egg dealers complain that they lose seven cents on every dozen eggs handled under present OPA ceilings—and they can't see how they can make any money that way.

INTERESTED ONLOOKERS

Sufficient Supply of Vital Foods

By MAX HILL

THERE is so much loose talk now about shortages of food, and of the cost of various products, that a comparison with what the rest of the world is eating may be worth while.

I am convinced, after several personal shopping trips, that the food situation—at least in New York—is being exaggerated. We are not hungry now, nor are we likely to be hungry in the future. It is quite obvious that we may have to change some of our fancy eating habits, but that is about all.

Ever since I returned from Japan in the exchange ship Gripsholm in the autumn of 1942 I have been astonished and more than a little worried by our waste of food.

Our garbage pails contain enough scraps to feed either Germany or Italy or Japan in far better fashion than they eat now.

This brief story, perhaps, will illustrate what I mean. After our arrival in New York, I went immediately to a large hotel for a breakfast of bacon and eggs.

I was sure the bacon, which before the war we got about once a month in Tokyo, wouldn't taste like fish; that the eggs would be fresh; that the toast would be buttered, and that the bread wouldn't be gray and doughy from adulterants. There might even be jam with sugar in it, and a cup of coffee.

I placed my order. Meanwhile one of the waitresses busied herself with a fruit salad for the noon meal. She opened a two-quart can of peaches, deliberately poured all of the rich syrup down the drain and then chopped up the peaches.

Is this what any reasonable person would call shortage?

AND as for prices, what would you say should a merchant demand $5 for a melon something like a canteloupe, or if you had to stand in line four hours every day for a skimpy portion of rationed rice or fish? In Japan, food shortages are accepted as an inevitable result of the war.

I recently returned from a tour through the midwest, and nowhere did I find an area where people couldn't buy more than they needed to eat. We had thick, well-aged steaks in Milwaukee, Chicago and Minneapolis, good vegetables and desserts so rich I was unable to eat them, even after being back in this country for nine months.

Let us be realistic about the war. We cannot have the luxury and ease we have had in the past. The Axis is fighting an all-out, 24-hour-a-day battle against us. We must do the same. To say the least, we will suffer less and enjoy more than any other nation in the world.

Once in Tokyo, an influential member of our diplomatic staff was talking with me about conditions in Japan and the United States. He was trying to convince me I should return. I couldn't, of course, since I had a job to do there.

Finally he said:

"Look, the worst over there is going to be far better than the best over here."

Think about such things the next time you are tempted to complain when you can't buy the rib roast you want, or find potatoes scarce.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

WELL you certainly have one for the books when you have Claude Pepper voting against the president and Wheeler voting for him.

And when you add Bankhead and Bilbo and Connally and O'Daniel, etc., etc., to Pepper you come pretty close to that quotation from Shakespeare which reads, left to right, "et tu Brute?"

* * *

So anyway now we've got a law which is about fifty-fifty good and bad and now that we've got it, what are we going to do with it?

* * *

We have a lot of laws on the books which aren't enforced for one reason or another and our special parlay prediction for today is (1) that somebody will be whispered into testing the constitutionality of this law and (2) that there won't be any hurry about giving instructions to enforce it.

* * *

The fact that congressional majorities of two-thirds have made it the law of the land won't necessarily get in the way of bending it around corners.

* * *

That's happened to a lot of law.

Beating The Years

THIS BUSINESS of growing Old—I suppose it sneaks up on each of us in a different way. Personally, I'd always laughed at my Sister Females' yelps of distress as they neared the Great Divide. Their terror over wrinkles and gray hairs. Their anguish as they saw Romance depart. . . . Heard studied platitudes replacing reckless professions of love . . . realize they were becoming Nice Old Ladies instead of Glamor Gals.

What idiots they were, said I to myself. What did all such puffle matter? To heck with Calendars, Complexion Creams and Roving Romeos! You were as young as you wanted to be! Get on with your work, girl, and forget the fireworks.

So I got on with my work. Which, until I was 38, hadn't been so much. Then there'd come this thing we Americans call "Success." A column to write. Seads of space to fill each day, scores of letters to answer. Nice job, if you have the constitution of a tractor. I had! So, at 40, we were sitting pretty, my job 'n' I.

And all the time, feeling perfectly sure that I had outsmarted this thing called "OLD AGE"!

Outsmart Old Age? Oh, yeah! Try 'n' do it! I had tried. I had thought I had done it. And suddenly I discovere that, while I was winning, I was being licked to a fare-ye-well! For I'd been sure that Growing Old meant losing your Girlish Dimples and your 24-inch waist. Not to mention that Marvelous Male! But it had never occurred to me that Old Age might creep up on me in quite another manner. A manner that had nothing to do with graying hairs and departing beaux . . . but just shows itself in a reluctance—

TO DO OLD THINGS IN NEW WAYS!

NEW WAYS! Once they'd been my favorite dish. As an Innovator I had always held all records. And naturally I had taken it for granted that I'd always be like that. But was I? How long was it since I had done SOMETHING NEW? Changed my methods, altered my equipment? To my dismay I realized that it must have been many a moon.

I'd been successful—hadn't I?—with the old methods. I'd gotten results—hadn't I?—with the old tools. Then why change? So I hadn't! For months I had gone on in the same old rut, never dreaming that thereby I was letting Old Age pin me to the mat!

And now when I tried to change . . . I who once had swirled so lightly from one program to another . . . found myself caught in a vise. A vise of old habit. Old Age got me in the one place where I least expected or feared. Not in graying hairs or straying lovers. But in my ability to keep changing with the times.

So my pride suddenly came a cropper! But it didn't stay cropped for long. Right then and there I invented a game which licked the calendar . . . a game I call—"BEATING THE YEARS." And how do I do it? By forcing myself to do things differently . . . to adopt new methods . . . to use new materials . . . to experiment with new tools.

Right now I've tackled something that is kicking me out of my rut so fast you can't see me for dust. I'M LEARNING TO USE A DICTATING MACHINE. You know, one of those talking machines. Just a recording cylinder and a thing to speak into. Not so easy after you've been measuring space and painting words with your own fingers for years.

But, oh boy, the joy of feeling that you're getting current again! That you're leaving the old rut that was fast deepening into a grave!

O'Dwyer Defends Army Attitude Toward Imperfect Plane Engines

WASHINGTON—Several weeks ago this column revealed that the Truman committee had unearthed a startling situation at the Wright Aeronautical works at Cincinnati where airplane motors, with cracks in their cylinders, were passed by the company. Certain government inspectors who protested that these cylinders were faulty were transferred, and one inspector was told never to set foot on Wright property again.

It was also revealed that the war department had investigated the matter and that Lt. Gen. William Knudsen, former head of General Motors, reported that the defects were not serious and occurred from time to time in most motor manufacturing.

On the basis of this and other army findings, the war department submitted a report to the Truman committee. It was prepared under the supervision of hard-hitting Col. Bill O'Dwyer, famous Brooklyn prosecutor and candidate for mayor of New York. O'Dwyer has been made one of the Army Air Corps' chief investigators and has been doing an A1 job.

In this case, however, the Truman committee did not compliment him. Calling Bill before them, the senators cross-examined him closely regarding the defective motors manufactured by Wright. They inferred that the army was trying to save face, and that the forthright New York prosecutor, in deference to his superior officers, was not as forthright as in civilian life.

Senator Ferguson, Republican of Michigan, was the most relentless of all. Himself a Detroit prosecutor, Ferguson grilled O'Dwyer as though he were on the witness stand, finally accused him of issuing a whitewash.

"Just come out in the alley and say that," bristled O'Dwyer.

"I'll take you to lunch and say it," replied Senator Ferguson with a smile, "but I won't come out in the alley."

The meeting ended harmoniously. But the Truman committee insisted that the army take back its report and examine the situation again.

Weaker Gasoline.

TRANSPORTATION Boss Joseph Eastman is worried over the fact that the public is now getting not only less gasoline but poorer gasolines. He finds that busses and trucks are operating less efficiently as a result of this, plus two other factors—namely, increased loading and decreased maintenance.

Though the public is not generally aware of it, real fact is that the gasoline it buys today is of lower grade than before the war. Previously, the gasoline sold to the public was of approximately the same standard as required by the government—namely, from 72 to 75 octane.

But the government has now lowered its specifications to 70 octane and this is the quality also being sold the public.

Also, it's not generally realized that the distinction of different grades and makes has practically disappeared. The government has requested companies to interchange fuel in given localities for economy in transportation. There is no longer any assurance of getting the branded product which is named on the pump.

Eastman has expressed his concern in conference with WPB officials in charge of petroleum requirements. Lower quality gasoline has brought a decrease in mileage and thus an increase in the amount of gasoline required to do the job.

Congress and the Heat.

THE current congress, especially on the house side, is getting the reputation of being "heat-crazed." Here are illustrations of recent legislation responsible for winning this name.

1. In the Office of Civilian Defense appropriation bill, the house killed an item for the War Service Branch, which handles the recruiting of volunteer workers for the Army, Navy, Red Cross and all war agencies. In other words, when volunteers want to contribute their services, the OCD War Services Branch acts as a clearing house to see that they reach the war agency which needs them most and for which they are best qualified.

If the House vote is not remedied by the senate, the Army, Navy, Red Cross and all the other agencies will now have to set up their own volunteer units, thus duplicating the expense instead of saving money.

2. Elimination of all enforcement appropriations for the Office of Price Administration. This means that the OPA is supposed to fix prices with no means of enforcing them, which is like giving a traffic cop a whistle with no power to arrest.

3. The cock-eyed vote on eliminating the domestic branch of the Office of War Information. Behind this was a combination of Republicans and reactionary Southern Democrats, largely influenced by the negro question.

Out of 50 Democrats voting against OWI, all but three were from the South. What roused them was a pamphlet "Negroes in the War" issued by OWI. But what Southern congressmen did not know was that Navy Intelligence and the FBI had reported a dangerous 5th Column campaign inspired by Japanese to persuade the Negro that this was a white man's war.

So the armed services wanted the Office of War Information to issue a booklet showing how negroes were doing important things to help win the war and were an actual part of it.

In return, Southern Democrats voted to abolish the OWI domestic branch.

Sahara Is Beautiful—"In a Ghastly Sort of Way"; Even Ernie Pyle Runs Short of Descriptive Words.

NORTH AFRICA—(By Wireless)—Our last day was as interesting as any on the whole trip. We took off early from Tripoli, and most of us were glad to get on our way. Fighting was then still going on in central Tunisia, and the Luftwaffe was active, so we made a wide circle around to the south.

We flew for many hours. The air was bitterly rough, and it seemed to us we would never get anywhere. We were over the Sahara, and I have never seen desert so utterly void of anything as the desert that was then beneath us. It was the billowing, spaceless kind of desert you see in the romantic movies — yellow and luscious enough to eat. It was truly beautiful in a ghastly, naked sort of way. Down among those rippled dunes no life could long exist.

ONCE I walked up into the cockpit. Lieut. Richard Litsey, jr., of Sherman, Tex., was flying the plane, and he said:

"How are you going to describe what this looks like?"

I told him I didn't think I could describe it, and he said he too felt completely incapable of picturing it to anybody else. Then he said:

"Let's go down and take a good look."

And down we started. The other passengers were either sick or asleep, and I'm sure it didn't help their repose when we unexplainedly started going down, down, down, over that remote, lifeless no-man's-land of infinite sand.

We went down until we were only a few feet above the ridges of the dunes, and down there we discovered to our aniazement that these dunes were sometimes two and three hundred feet high. Their rippled sides were so beautiful they made you feel sad.

For hours we flew over this lovely, tortured segment of the world. Finally we came out into the suburbs of the desert—foothills and occasional oases. I began to recognize it as country I had traveled over by truck when we went to search for some crashed planes last winter.

And then at last we flew over the very airdrome where I had spent so many weeks at the beginning of the year. It looked lonely and foresaken down there now—for we had abandoned it long ago, driven out by the continuously flying sand.

AT LAST we came over northern Algeria, and to the last hour of our homeward flight. By now it was late in the day, and everybody was in a tense, expectant, homecoming spirit. Even the sick ones couldn't help feeling an animation. The pilots semed to feel it more than anybody else. They kept the plane only a few feet off the ground, and it seemed we must be going 500 miles an hour. Flocks of sheep ran wildly before us. Arabs stopped their oxen in the fields and ducked as we fled over them. The plane banged and bounced and tore on into the mountain passes ahead us as though it had its teeth bared.

As I have said before, northern Algeria is incredibly beautiful. Its great ridges and green forests and gentle valleys and white clouds are a divine progeny such as nature seldom conceives. We roared into and through this spectacular beauty — sometimes almost scraping the red roofs of Arab villages perched on nearly inaccessible peaks, sometimes twisting through narrow passes that we passengers swore were not wide enough for our wings, sometimes soaring out over ledges that dropped down thousands of feet and left us suddenly motionless, it seemed, above the patchwork valleys far below.

And finally we came home, or to what we who are now so long out of America have come to call home.

THE LONG peril and agony of travel were over. It was a gigantic relief to feel the ultimate ground underneath us again. We piled out with an inner feeling of accomplishment that practically made us individual heroes to ourselves. We emerged as though expecting some welcoming throng at the airdrome to break into uncontrolled cheers in our honor.

Fortunately no such thing happened. For as I climbed down the ladder I caught a heel on the narrow steps, lost my balance, and fell sprawling onto the ground. I tore my pants, and skinned my knee nastily.

It was my only accident in nearly 15,000 miles of travel. But so high were our spirits at being home again that even the burning in my knee felt good.

A Farmer's Diary

Unused Poison

I THOUGHT my late planted corn was doing well. I was proud it see it rush along so fast. Last week it was two inches high. Each morning I walked across the field to enjoy the sight of the thrifty lines of green against the rising sun.

But my happiness was cut short when I walked to the north and saw where some bird or beast had bored into the soil near each stalk, then pulled it out and eaten the sprouted grain. There are raccoons in the adjoining woods and crows that watch from treetops when I come close. My Dutch was up. I plotted vengefully against the culprits.

Next morning about dawn I hid myself in a hedge of elders to watch a while. For a half hour nothing happened. Then two black imps of Satan cawed sassily and flew down into the field, where they began to stalk along the rows and pick out the best hills of corn. Two more came and joined them. I wished for a rifle, but knew I was too far away. The corn flew.

When I ran out and threw a hasty clod, they flew up cawing in astonishment, and promising each other to be back, went over into the treetops. I went to town and bought some strychnine from the druggist.

"Mix it with about two quarts of water," he said," and soak corn in it overnight. Scatter it around the field—the crows will eat it readily—and you won't be bothered any more."

I put the small bottle, safely sealed, into my pocket. Now I could put an end to this business! I could teach those squawking robbers a lesson! Brazen black thieves!

Then I thought of the innocents abroad at night . . . the skunk, the raccoon, the ground hog and opossum . . . the dainty white-foot mouse and the trusting mother quail with her little brood. I imagined the distorted faces of the wild folk, writhing in the agonies of strychnine poisoning.

I stood beside the corn field, fingering the bottle in my pocket, and heard the pheasant crow from the edge of the draw; a meadow lark tilted on a weed and sang, shrilly sweet: a pair of turtle doves wallowed between the corn rows.

With the toe of my heavy shoe, I absentmindedly dug a rather deep hollow in the moist brown dirt. Thoughtlessly I planted the bottle of strychnine and covered it, stamping it hard. Then I went to the house and told one of the boys. "Get a pole and some old tin cans that will rattle and bang. We will have to do something about those crows in the corn field."
